HELD FOR DEATH OF HORSE

Columbus Farmer Receives Preliminary Hearing and Is Bound Over to District Court.

COLUMBUS, Neb., April 17.—Alfred Hittner, Cornlea, Neb farmer, was bound over to the district court for trial by County Judge Gibbon following a preliminary hearing in county court. Charles P. Bender, complaining witness in the case, charges that Hittner is responsible for the death of one of his (Bender's) horses, the animal dying from infection in a wound caused by a bullet of a .22 caliber rifle.

Hittner admitted that he had shot at the horse, but he declared that he had done it to frighten the animal away, thinking that the caliber of the rifle was too small to do serious damage at his distance Hittner said that he had resorted to the use of the rifle after the animal had repeatedly strayed from home onto his land.

Judge Gibbon held that there was sufficient evidence to warrant binding the defendant over to the district court and fixed the bond at $500 permitting Hittner to be his own surety.

TROOPS CANNOT EVICT MINERS

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 17.—State troops cannot be used in evicting striking miners from the premises of the Liberty Coal and Coke company in Bell county where the miners' strike made it necessary that troops be sent.

Attorney General Frank E. Daugherty gave this opinion to Adjutant General Kehoe in answer to General Kehoe's inquiry as to whether the troops would be within their legal rights in arresting miners as trespassers and removing their belongings. Kehoe held that lawlessness and disorder had been brought about by strikers who have violated the terms of their leases on their homes. Daugherty stated that the company hadits legal remedies to evict tenants and that it was no part of the troops' duties to do this.

Efforts to arbitrate the strike in eastern Kentucky have failed, but comparative quiet prevails there now. In western Kentucky the strike of 10,000 miners has been without incident and both sides seem resigned to a waiting attitude.

COOLIDGE TO MAKE A PLAIN STATEMENT

Addrss to Newspaperd Editors in New York Next Week to Inform Public of His Plans.

By Lawrence Martin.
Copyright 1924 by United Press.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—President Coolidge intends to make a plain, unfrilled statement of the issues of the presidential campaign as he see them, when he addresses newspaper editors in New York next week.

It is desirable, in Mr. Coolidge's opinion that the public be always informed as to what it may expect from him and his administration providing they are returned to power. He has clear ideas of the issues and both he and his advisers agree that there is no reason why the president should not at once take a definite stand upon them.

Nothing new or startling need be expected in the way of declarations of principle in the forthcoming speech.

The principal issue, as the president sees it, is whether the country is to have stability or instability; ordered and evenly proceeding government or hodge-podge government pulled at cross purposes by numerous groups. His whole appeal will be for setting things in order so that the country can "settle down" to a period of quiet and clam.

WANTS NEW CONSTITUTION

Representative Berger, Socialist, Would Authorize Convention for Changing It.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—A movement to rewrite the constitution and revise the present form of government was started today by Representative Victor Berger, Wisconsin socialist, who introduced in the house a resolution which would authorize congress to call a convention for the purpose.

The present constitution makes our form of government a "monarchy" Berger said The president has power equal to two-thirds of congress. The cabinet is not dependent upon the will of congress as in the British form of government.

"The senate, fashioned after the British house of lords continues to serve long after the institution it imitated has fallen into disuse," Berger said.

"In it a voter from the state of Rhode Island counts for as much as ten votes from the state of New York."

"Judges appointed for life, overrule the laws of congress and the people now are victims of a judicial oligarchy," Berger said.

THREE FLYERS TO JOURNEY ON

By Lieut. Burdette S. Wright.
Army Air Service.
Copyright 1924 by United Press.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Three of the four American round the world flyers are scheduled to leave Chignik, Alaska, today for Dutch Harbor, Unalaska, while their leader, Major Martin, with his flagship, the Seattle, remains in Portage bay, where he will change his motor and join them in a few days.

Dutch harbor is one of the main bases and motors and other spare parts have been stored there. A motor will probably be sent from there today for the repair of the Seattle.

According to reports received today by chief of the air service, Martin's forced landing was due to a hole developing in the crank case of the motor. Aviators believed a connecting rod broke loose.

The planes in proceeding from Chignik to Dutch Harbor, a distance of 400 miles, may stop at False Head, 220 miles from Chignik, thus making the trip in two stages. They will continue however, to Dutch Harbor and make a general inspection of their planes while waiting for Martin.

The planes are not behind schedule. What is thought generally to be their schedule is the supply schedule for the flight, which requires that all arrangements for the flight be made on those dates

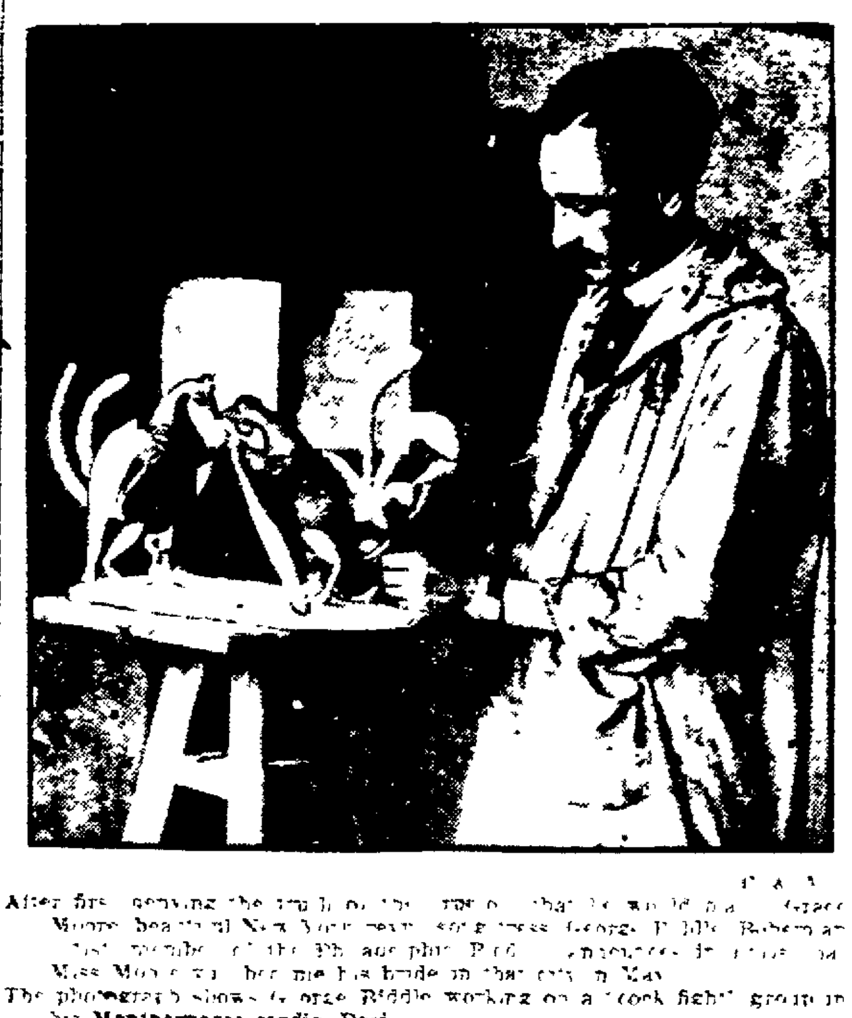

It was originally intended for the flyers to start May 12. In order to allow for poor weather on the western coast, it was decided that they start one month earlier.

USED CHURCH TO SEIZE FUNDS

DALLAS, Tex., April 17.—Accused of stripping his congregation of their personal possessions in order to finance the 'Coming of Christ" to Dallas on Easter Sunday, the Rev. John Quincy Adams, of the Holy Pentecostal churc here was sought today by a grand jury.

The pastor was said to have vanished in a "flivver" with funds raised by his parishioners who sold their homes and furniture in expectation of the return of Christ and the end of the world on Easter.

RANKS FORD OFFER WITH EXPLOSURES

Representative Hull Declares Contemplating Leasing of Shoals to Auto Man Is Startling Gift.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The offer to lease Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford is a startling gift, ranking with other present day exposures Representative Harry Hull, Iowa, told the women's national republican club here today. Hull said it would become a great issue in the coming campaign.

The McKenzie bill, he pointed out, which attempts to turn Muscle Shoals over to Ford, is principally democratic legislation insisted uopn by southern and other democratic members o fthe house of representatives.

"At the close of the war the government had invested $102,000,000 in Muscle Shoals. The nitrate plants and Waco quarry represent an investment of $84,000,000," Hull said.

"In the spring of 1921 congress decided it would not appropriate any more money. Henry Ford was induced to make an offer. His offer was $5,000,000 for more than $84,000,000 worth of property The offer was not accepted," he continued.

Then Hull said a propaganda campaign was started thru the American Farm Bureau Federation advocating the acceptance of the Ford offer. The Gorgas plant was sold for $3,472,487 25

"Now Ford insists his former offer must be accepted which means we must take $3,472,875 25 out of the treasury and give it to Mr. Ford Not onl ythat but acceptance of the Ford offer would nullify and repeal the federal water power act in the sense that it would create a precedence for ignoring its essential provisions," he said.

He said there were two other offers for parts of the Muscle Shoals lease which are better than the Ford offer.

In closing he urged:

"Back-up President Coolidge. He suggested that a commission or small joint committee of congress be named to work out the Muscle Shoals problems."

D. A. R. HOLDS ELECTION

Voting by States Begins With Overnight Switch in the Ticket Supported.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Voting by states, the national elections of the D. A. R. began here this afternoon. An overnight switch in the ticket supported by the party in power has seriously changed the color of the political situation.

The name of Mrs. Adam Denmead, Maryland state regent, has been removed from the administration ticket, it is reported, and the name of Mrs. Edith Magna, a "dark horse" candidate from Holyoke, Mass., substituted.

No explanation of the desertion of Mrs. Denmead has been offered. It is reported, however, that her introduction of a resolution endorsing the Japanese exclusion act is responsible.

Results of the voting probably will not be made known until tonight as the polling is slow.

Among the candidates for vice president general is Miss Amy Gilbert, State Center, Iowa.

A move today by the administration party apparently will defeat the resolution asking President Coolidge to sign the Japanese exclusion bill.

Mrs. Anne Lang, Oregon, state regent, today introduced a substitute resolution which national officers regarded as "safe and sane."

It endorses restricted immigration without direct reference to the Japanese question.

DEMANDS SHOALS ACTION

Senator Underwood Declares Time Has Come for Opporutnity of Expression of Opinions.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Demand for action on Muscle Shoals legislation was made in the senate today by Senator Underwood, Alabama.

"The time has come" Underwood declared "when we should have an opportunity to express the sense of the senate on the Ford proposition."

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Ten million dollars will be spent in research work at Muscle Shoals if that property is awarded the Hooker Atterbury-White syndicate, Elon Hooker, one of the group told the senate agriculture committee today.

GEOLOGIST BEFORE THE OIL COMMITTEE

W. W. Tarbell Declares Teapot Dome Wells Not Turning Out as Much Oil as Had Been Expected.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—W. W. Tarbell, geologist, was called by Senator Spencer, Missouri republican, in the senate oil probe today.

Teapot Dome wells are not turning out as much oil as was expected, Tarbellsaid. He said drilling to offset wells had lessened the power of gas and consequently the flow was not as free as it would have been.

Tarbell said also that California naval reserve No. 1 would not yield as much as some expert geologists expected.

Tarbell described what he said of the stock of the Mammoth Oil company—the concern which operates Teapot Dome.

The stock was put on the market at $40 and run up to $140, he claimed.

Sinclair's stock advanced $57,000,000 on the strength of rumors about the Teapot Dome lease shortly after it was made, Tarbell added.

Walsh declared as a result of Tarbell's testimony he intended to summon E. C. Finney of the secretary of the interior's office to give additional information concerning lease of naval reserve No. 2 in California.

NO QUESTIONS ASKED THAW

Called to Stand But Opponents Are Unprepared.

THE WITNESS IS AMAZED

Had Expected Barrage of Quizzing From Lawyers.

Little of Gay Spendthrift of Twenty-five Years Ago Seen in Man Confined in Asylum.

PHILADELPHIA, April 17.—The "climax" of the Thaw sanity trial turned into an amazing anti-climax today when the slayer of Stanford White took the stand and left it without being questioned.

Thaw's counsel, announcing that Mrs. Mary Thaw, Harry's mother, was ill, immediately rested their case.

The parties opposed to Thaw's release were caught unawares by the action of Judge Patterson in putting Thaw on the stand and then turning him over to the opposition.

After hurried consultation they announced "no questions" and court adjurned until this afternoon.

"The burden of proof is on the Thaw side," counsel for the trustees and for Evelyn Nesbit, who oppose the millionaire's release said in explanation of their move. "It's up to Thaw to prove himself sane if he wants to be freed. It's not for us to start proof that he is otherwise."

Thaw was on the stand only eleven minutes. The first minute, perhaps, was occupied with him giving his name and age, fifty-three, in a low voice.

Then Judge Patterson turned him over to "Billy" Gray and Arthur Dickson, opposing counsel, for any questions they might wish to ask.

The attorneys were nonplussed. Thaw glared at them, his eyes flashing, but his features remained composed, bathed in sweat. His hands were folded in his lap.

Gray and Dickson consulted with their assistants and kept Thaw sitting there.

Finally, just as the crowded court room hung expectant on "Billy" Gray's first words, the brilliant trial lawyer who represents Thaw's former wife, Evelyn Nesbit, rose and said brusquely:

"No questions."

Thaw's jaw fell, he sat back in the witness chair in amazement. Judge Paterson looked around, startled by the move which had been as unexpected as his own.

Then he arose and went and told Thaw, who acted as tho he could scarcely believe his ears, that it was all right for him to leave the stand.

The Thaw side rested their case and the opposition will open this afternoon.

A murmur of interest ran thru the crowd in the court room where the trial of Thaw's right to freedom among his fellowmen is being held as the tall, portly, grey haired figure strode forward.

DARING ROBBERY OF REGISTERED MAIL

Five South St. Paul Bandits Obtain $35,000 in Haul From Great Western Station.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Minn., April 17.—Five bandits obtained more than $35,000 cash in a daring mail robbery here today.

The money was in a sack of registered mail being transferred at the Great Western station by postal employes. It was consigned to the Stockyards National bank from the ninth district federal reserve bank in Minneapolis.

How much more money was contained in the registered mail sacks, postal officials were unable to say.

Two postal employes were driving along the street with the mail sacks when the bandits, in an automobile drew alongside, brought the mail truck to a halt, seized the sacks and fled.

"WILD" MAN IS CAPTURED

Foreigner Out of Employment Subsists on Raw Grain as Only Food for Days.

FALLS CITY, Neb., April 17.—Hatless and in rags, having the appearance of a primitive being from having subsisted on raw wheat taken from granaries as his only food for days, a "wild" man who has been terrorizing the residents about Humboldt has been finally captured and turned over to authorities. The man it was learned thru an Italian interpreter, gave his name as Peter Feduccia, an alien. He said that he had been out of employment for seven months and was reduced to the cattle-like foraging for food when on the verge of starvation. He was taken to Omaha, where he was to be turned over to the Italian consul

POLICE PUT ON CLEANUP

ACTING CHIEF CAUSES SEVERAL ARRESTS TO BE MADE.

Charges to Permitting Buildings to Be Used for Purposes of Prostitution Are Filed Against Four.

Mrs. Emaline Wolf, a rooming house keeper at 1424 O was fined $100 and costs in police court Thursday morning on a charge of permitting a building under her control to be used for illegal purposes.

Mrs. E. E. Adams, 1427 O, and May Jollar, 1446 Q were arraigned on like charges, their cases being continued to Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

The arrests came after about two months surveiliance of the rooming houses which was topped Wednesday when Ruth Butler, twenty-four was arrested at 1424 O and admitted having divided money taken in with rooming house keepers.

Mary E. Bair, who runs the Mayo hotel at 1448 O was fined $100 and costs Wednesday in police court on a similar charge. Her arrest followed an escapade in which a taxicab driver and a woman registered as his wife were prosecuted on disorderly charges in the early part of the week. Federal officers are at present working on the case.

Ruth Butler at first maintained her innocence after her arrest by Detective Chief Anderson and Detective Schneible but told the whole story after a close quizzing. She said she paid Mrs. Wolf a dollar for each man entertained and that she occasionally went over to Mrs. Adams' place. In a fit of loud weeping she gave as her excuse that she could not get work during the winter months and had to live. She also stated that she has a husband in Kansas City who is unable to support her because of lack of work. Judge Chappell promised to see that she obtained employment or was cared for and no complaint was filed.

Mrs. Adams and May Zollar were arrested Thursday morning by Detective Schneible and Mrs. Wolf by Detective Scheible and Lieutenant Rymer. Police say a further exposure may develop.

KENTUCKY MINE TROUBLE

Three Thousand Workmen Idle and Largest Pit Threatens to Use Non-Union Men.

HARLAN, Ky., April 17.—Trouble was smouldering here today with 3,000 miners idle and the largest mine threatening to bring in non-union workers.

There was nothing definite to indicate when strike breakers will be brought in. It is understood labor brokers in the north are hiring the men and are arranging to ship them to the Kentucky coal fields this week or next.

Both sides are settling down for a long strike

SWATS ULTRA-CONSERVATIVES.

WASHINGTON April 17.—An ultra-conservative is a greater menace to business and politics than the worst radical, because the radical at least "starts something." Thus reasons Harry Wardman, Washington's master builder and contractor and the largest real estate holder, excluding the federal government, in the District of Columbia. It is this reasoning that guides him as he is today working out plans for 1,400 houses, all soon to be under construction here

BANKER GETS SOME RELIEF

WRIT OF ERROR SECURES RELEASE FROM JAIL.

Emil J. Kotas of Milligan Says He Didn't Have Fair Trial Before Judge Brown on Forgery Charge.

A writ of error secured from the supreme court Thursday by Robert B. Waring, attorney of Geneva, relieved Emil J. Kotas, former banker of Milligan, from the necessity of remaining in jail. He was convicted before Judge Brown the other day on a charge of forging the name of Abbey Hodek, his wife's sister, to a note for $2,000 and getting the money thereon out of the Nebraska State bank of Milligan. After the court sentenced him he remanded him to jail, and declined to admit him to bail pending an appeal. Mr. Waring hurried to Lincoln, filed his appeal, and secured the writ of error that directs the lower court to allow him to give bond pending the determination of his appeal.

Kotas was president of the bank, which has been in a receiver's hands for some time. His brother, Adolph, was cashier. He pleaded guilty in federal court to violating the federal law and was given a two year term in Leavenworth. The brothers also operated an elevator in the town. The institution was operated by Bohemians in a community strongly Bohemian, and was popularly known as the Kotas bank.

The original information against Kotas, as shown in the record, embraced eight charges of forgery of notes and checks, but the Hodek charge was the only one pressed. Mr. Waring insists that the evidence does not sustain the charge, and that Abbey Hodek testified that she authorized Kotas to sign the note. One complaint made is that the state was allowed to introduce a letter from her in which she corroborated a statement made to the county attorney that she had not authorized him to do it. The note was not produced in court.

"During the 1920 convention he tried to get our delegation to vote for Lowden," Baer continued.

ROADS TELL THEIR TALE

INFORM FEDERAL SUPREME COURT OF TAX TROUBLES.

Claim That Remedy Under State Laws Is Inadequate and That They Are Forced to Ask Equitable Relief.

George W. Ayres and Hugh Lamaster of the attorney general's staff are back from Washington, where they took part in the argument of the cases where the Burlington, the Northwestern and the Minneapolis & Omaha railroads, are seeking to be relieved of a portion of their 1922 state, county and school taxes.

The case involves about $300,000. If the state wins, as it did in the federal court at Omaha, it will get that much more money and if it loses the railroads will not have to pay it. They paid a certain proportion of what was due at the time, the amount they claimed was all they were liable for.

The state law provides that railroads shall be assessed by the state board of equalization, and if dissatisfied they may appeal to the supreme court within a certain time. Instead of doing this the railroads later went into federal court and asked an order enjoining the various county treasurers from using forcible means to secure payment of the taxes assessed, and attacking them on the ground that they are taxed beyond their real value, while farm property and other holdings are taxed about half their value.

Judges Lewis and Munger held that the remedy provided by the statutes was ample and adequate. This was the principal point argued at Washington. They said that this meant a multiplicity of suits, that the taxes would meanwhile become a lien on their property, that it was an inadequate remedy and inflicted irreparable injury that cases at law would not cover. Bruce Scott, a general attorney of Chicago, argued the case for the Burlington and Wymer Dressler for the other roads. The state's attorneys contended that the statutory remedy was plain and simple, and entirely adequate. The Rock Island availed itself of this method last year, and won in supreme court on the same claim of discriminatory violations.

ROADS COST LESS MONEY

GOVERNOR BRYAN PROMPTLY TAKES THE CREDIT.

Declares He Caused It by Threatening to Open State Gravel Bed and System of Bidding.

Governor Bryan is claiming credit for a reduction in the price of gravel and road grading as reflected in bids opened by the department of public works.

"There has been a big saving in road contracts," said Governor Bryan, "and it is due to two things, first, reduction in the price of gravel, the trust in Nebraska having cut its price one-third in anticipation of state competition; second, because of changed conditions under which the competition is conducted. Bids are received at a stated hour and opened immediately in the presence of bidders who know the lowest bidder will be awarded a contract, and this eliminates the old practice of bidders subletting contracts two or three times after getting a contract."

State Engineer Cochran's assistants said the bids being received are below their estimates both on gravel and grading. They do not attempt to compare prices of gravel because there has been little graveling in Nebraska in years past, and the price depends upon the thickness of the layer specified and on the length of the haul from gravel pits. Bids on one road graveling project were rejected Thursday because they were considered too high.

The engineers say the average price of grading in 1922 was about 28 cents a cubic yard. The average bid now is between 22 and 23 cents. Several counties were prepared to bid on road work in order to protect themselves from high prices. Madison county was awarded a contract because it was lower than bids offered by contractors. Contractors who formerly obtained big road contracts are either not no whidding or are too high and are receiving few contracts.

Contracts Awarded.

The following contracts were awarded Thursday:

Project 5, Platte county—North and south of Humphrey 2.35 miles. Gravel 4 inches. All bids rejected.

5, Madison county—Fullerton-Norfolk-Madison 8.5 miles. Gravel 2 inches 105,225 square yards at .165, $17,362.12, Madison county.

50-D Nance county—Fullerton south to county line, 3.59 miles. Grading at .23, $20,978.00, S. M. Aldridge Bros., Nebraska City, Neb.; corrugated culvert, $1,873.70, Western Bridge, Omaha, Neb.; woven wire guard rail, $377.60, Western Bridge, Omaha, Neb.

57 Dixon county—Wakefield-Allen 9.85 miles. Grading at .21, $25,843.35, H. Moseman, Omaha; corrugated culverts, $5,389.20, J. A. Johnson, Wakefield; woven wire guard rail, $1,468, Lamoreaux Bros., Omaha Neb.; concrete ditch checks, $3,375, Capital Bridge Co., Lincoln, Neb.; bridge, $4,429.13, Standard Bridge Co., Omaha, Neb.

NEW ATTACK ON TOURISTS

TWO MORE AMERICANS KILLED BY THE ALBANIANS.

Report From Greece That Highwaymen Slew U. S. Citizens—May Be Confusion of Stories.

ATHENS, April 17.—Two more American tourists have been killed near Tirana, Albania, according to an unconfirmed report received by the ministry of war here today.

The report does not give the names, merely reporting an attack on the tourists by a band of fifteen highwaymen and stating that two Americans were killed.

Albanians are very anxious, the message adds, fearing grave consequences from this second attack.

Rome sources, which ordinarily are well informed on Albanian affairs, do not report any additional attacks on Americans and it may be the Greek advices are merely a confusion of the murders of the Americans De Lon and Coleman on the Tirana-Scutari highway two weeks ago Sunday.

TALKING OF FAST TRAINS

ROADS TO REVISE TIME CARDS IN NEAR FUTURE.

Some New Trains to Be Added in the West and More Rapid Travel Planned for the Summer Months.

While the Union Pacific has made no offical announcement concerning its summer schedules, gossip has been heard that it will restore some service taken off at the end of last year on April 27, and that it will quicken the speed of its Omaha-Denver trains. Along with this gossip comes a report from Chicago that on the same date the Rock Island will revise its passenger service, add a few trains and quicken the speed of some of the regular trains. One of the new trains announced is to be a Des Moines-Chicago passenger, which will make a thru run, possibly stopping for operating reasons but for no other its 358 miles trip. That means it will have no scheduled stops, and that it will make the trip in 42 miles an hour for the entire distance, taking passengers out of Des Moines at 11 p. m. and putting them down in Chicago at breakfast time.

The gossip concerning the Union Pacific is that its new Denver trains are to cover the distance between Omaha and Denver at a fifty miles an hour rate for the trip, a speed not now approached. Many of the trains run faster than that between stations but none of them average that time for long distances between the river and Denver.

Burlington information places the date of train schedule changes for June 1 altho this date may be changed. At that time it is expected that Nos. 1 and 10 will be restored, and some other additions to service made.

FRANK TAGUE ARRAIGNED

Released on $500 Bond—Saalfeld Bound Over to District Court on Alimony Charge.

Frank Tague, who was brought back from Clarks, Neb., in company with Clarence Saalfeld of Norfolk by Constable Vorhies Wednesday evening, was arraigned in Justice Stevens' court Thursday morning where he pleaded not guilty to a two count charge of illegal possession and transportation of liquor. The case was continued to May 19, he being released on $500 bond and H. C. Beebe, his attorney of Osceola, Neb., and Carrie Tague of Clarks, going surety. The alleged violation was on December 6, at which time he was shot by an officer and seriously wounded while waiting with a carload of hooch near the Landis baseball park.

Clarence Saalfeld pleaded guilty to a charge of failure to pay alimony for the support of his children and was bound over to the district court by Justice Stevens, Thursday morning. He was released on $300 recognizance. His wife was granted a divorce by the late Judge Morning and he was given custody of the children who were immediately turned over to his mother. The court order was that he should pay $25 a month toward the support of the children. His mother is now dead, both he and his divorced wife are remarried and she now has the children.

GORDON CAMPBELL OF MONTANA IS WITNESS

Never Employed Senator Wheeler As Attorney Before Interior Department.

WAS INDICTED WITH WHEELER

Montana Senator Had Refused to Appear for Him.

NO BUSINESS AT TIMES NAMED

Member of Upper House Charged With Illegally Accepting Retainer for Campbell in Oil Drilling Permits.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Gordon Campbell of Montana, today denied before the senate committee investigating the indictment of Senator Wheeler, Montana, that Wheeler had ever appeared before the interior department for him in the capacity of paid attorney.

Campbell was indicted with Wheeler at Great Falls, Mont. The indictments charged that Wheeler had illegally accepted a retainer from Campbell to represent him before the department in connection with oil drilling permits.

Campbell said he had no business with the department in January or February, 1923, when Wheeler was alleged to have received the retainers. He said that Wheeler had "repeatedly" told him he could not appear before any departments for him.

Investigation of the indictment of Senator Wheeler, Montana, got under way today with former Representative Tom Stour of Montana on the witness stand.

At the outset Senator Sterling, South Dakota, suggested that all witnesses waive immunity before testifying but Chairman Borah said that none of them are under charges and that it was unnecessary.

Borah read into the record the statute which Wheeler was accused of violating. It provides that no government official shall accept fees for representing clients before government departments.

For the time being Wheeler will give up his duties as prosecutor of the Daugherty investigation to attend his own "trial." The Daugherty investigation will continue, however, with Chairman Brookhart taking over the task of examining witnesses.

Blair Coan, who was subpoenaed as an agent of the department of justice, altho W. J. Burns, director of the bureau of investigation denied his connection with the department will also be on hand. Wheeler charged that Coan was employed by George B. Lockwood, secretary of the republican national committee to investigate his record in Montana.

Other witnesses are former representative Tom Stout, of Montana and James Baldwin, Wheeler's law partner, who arrived yesterday in response to subpoenas.

Senator McNary, Oregon, will sit on the committee today in the place of Senator McLean, Connecticut, who resigned because of the press of other work.

COMMODITIES NOT IN CASE

COMMISSION WRITES LETTER TO E. P. RYAN.

Hearing an May 27 on Application of Railroads Involves Only Class Rates in Various Schedules.

The state railway commission wrote a letter Thursday to E. P. Dean, traffic expert of the Grand Island chamber of commerce, intended to calm his fears that the railroads of the state, in asking for a substitution of western classification No. 58 for the Nebraska classification of shipments are seeking to change any of the commodity rates.

Mr. Dean recently wrote to the commission asking for information on this point, but later he sent out a letter to other jobbing points calling attention to the fact that if the western classification was to be applied to shipments of peaches, apples and other fruits as much as 200 per cent of an increase would occur.

The commissioners tell Mr. Dean that while the commodity rate schedule under which goods move between Nebraska towns is a supplement to the Nebraska classification it is not a part of it, and these commodity rates are not involved in the application referred to. Commodity rates differ from class rates in that they are much lower usually and are put into effect because of the large movement between towns. Thus if only one car of potatoes was shipped yearly from Kearney to Lincoln it would be accorded only a class rate. As there are over 100 car loads the railroads cut the class rate about in two under the commodity tariff.

The railroad representatives tell the commission that they are not seeking any increased revenue, but that the application is made primarily to clear up an existing confusion. Three classifications now exist on shipments. One is the Nebraska classification covering shipments between non-jobbing points; another western C classification No. 57, an outgrowth of war conditions and federal control, covering intrastate shipments between the thirteen jobbing points in the state and western classification No. 58, which covers all interstate shipments.

The railroads tell the commission that it would take four men three months to set down every difference in rates that will arise from the substitution asked for, and the commission has the idea in mind of asking them to give the changes on say 100 typical commodities that take class rates. The roads do not ask for the complete application of No. 58, and suggest that certain exceptions should be made.

TRYING FOR A FOOTHOLD

DETERMINED EFFORT TO MOULD SIMPLIFIED ZONING.

Men Who Have Given Months of Their Time to It Patient in Endeavor to Please General Public.

Prominent Lincoln men who have given months of their time to a workable zoning ordinance for Lincoln are patiently driving toward a simplified scheme which, they hope, will put out the fires of opposition and give zoning a foothold. They express certainty that a foothold will mean eventual and general satisfaction. It is too early to know exactly the form of this final draft. It may pertain to ground usage only. It may include areas on some modified scale and it may be a boiled down and simplified draft of the initial so-called comprehensive plan which includes use, height and area.

Members of the zoning advisory board, councilmen, city engineers and attorneys who are a unit in favor of zoning, apparently have reached that stage where they are willing to abandon any personal preference if such abandonment will remove opposition. It has ever been their belief that opposition, much of it colored with the political brush, has been without good foundation and due largely to lack of understanding.

When George B. Ford, vice president of the Technical Advisory Corporation of New York, left Lincoln for the eastlate Wednesday, he carried an arm load of suggestions presented by advisory board members, councilmen and the city engineer. Each suggestion is intended to fit into the formulation scheme for simplicity. If it is decided to make the initial fling on a "use" basis only, there at least will be sufficient precedent to spil any claim of experiment. City Engineer Erickson is in receipt of condensed data regarding all zoned cities. In California where twenty-four cities are zoned, eighteen of them are classified as use only. This means regulation of property use. Los Angeles, one of the first icties to adopt zoning, has operated under a use zoning ordinance since 1909. San Francisco, San Diego and other California cities lean to this type alone. In the east the pendulum swings the other way and use ordinances are in the minority. In New Jersey but fourteen out of sixty-two are of this type while in Illinois but two of twenty-five cities are zoned along property use lines only. A majority of the eastern cities have the comprehensive zoning plan which regulates use, height and area.

A use and area ordinance has proved satisfactory in Wichita according to data received by Mr. Erickson from the Wichita engineer. When Mr. Bryan first opposed zoning, he argued that it would curtail local business center activities and force people to come down town to do their shopping. Some portions of the letter from the Wichita engineer indicate that zoning doesn't work out this way. The communication in part:

"It is really striking after our zoning ordinance has been in operation for eighteen months to observe development of corners designated as commercial. As a direct result of the zoning ordinance, commercial corners have increased in value—not because of a monopoly of the building sites but because people go to those fixed and definite locations for business purposes. On the other hand, residence property has increased in value from twenty to thirty per cent because stores may not encroach and decrease the value."

WILSON TALKS TO CHILDREN

Adresses Junior Civic League on Factors Governing Choice of a Vocation.

"Choose a vocation that will repay you in satisfaction as well as in money, and cultivate your minds so that you can get the most out of life." This was the gist of an address by H. H. Wilson before a junior civic league assembly Thursday morning at the chamber of commerce. To unwise choice of vocation Judge Wilson attributed the fact that more than four-fifths of the people in this country above the age of sixty-five were dependent on others. He urged the young people to find out as early as possible for what they were best suited and choose their work accordingly.

The speaker scored the artificial distinctions imposed by society, and said any useful occupation was honorable and could bring real honor to its follower if he did it exceptionally well. On the other hand, he pointed out, no vocation can honor an unworthy character. Judge Wilson referred to the exceptional educational system of Lincoln, and said it was all justified because of turning out an improved type of citizen.

After the address the 120 boys and girls divided into thirty-four groups and went out on trips—their last, for they were from the Ninth A grade—to as many different offices, plants and institutions. They will report to their classmates the information they get at first hand from an artist, an architect, an author, a baker and so on down thru the alphabet to stenographer, teacher and telephone operator. One group of boys went to a farm and a group of girls to a beauty shop.

First Day's Subscriptions to Salvation Army Totalled Twenty-one Hundred Dollars.

Subscriptions to the Salvation Army's $10,000 budget totalled $2,141.60 at the end of the first day, and workers reported to headquarters that they were met with enthusiasm everywhere. F. H. Green raised $200 at the Burlington roundhouse in a few hours, and did not complete his canvass Tuesday.

Forty stores and business houses are obtaining pledges from their employes and the women workers are active in the residence districts. W. R. Lowe, whose teritory is O street from Seventeenth to Twenty-first, turned in $178 the first day, the returns from work in only part of his district. Reports for Wednesday were not yet complete Thursday morning.

Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

My Dear Mary Gordon: I wonder if you remember some four or five months ago the letter from "Another Mary." Well, in case you do, I would like to add another chapter to that poor little truthful tale of woe. I was engaged to "Mary's" brother, who now lies in Flander's field, so know circumstances pretty well. Mary and I were childhood chums, and she confided in me quite freely of her "Prince Charming," who later married another and completely broke Another Mary's heart. I know he still loves "Another Mary" for he never loses an opportunity to question me all he can concerning her, but I have kept Mary's secret and I shall never be the one to tell unless given permission. I have rehearsed dozens of times, what I would like to say to him if the time ever comes.

Just three weeks ago I was called to Mary's bedside, until then unknown to anyone of her friends or relatives, and think I am the only one who knows it now. Poor dear little "Another Mary," she is just like a flower, has given birth to twins, one boy and one girl. Perfect little love babies in every way. But what is she going to do now. Her money is going fast, her health none too good and her trust in God certainly has taken a turn.

Don't you think, Mary Gordon that this man should have to pay for all of this in some way? True, he has an adorable wife and children, and it seems wrong to destroy this evident happiness, but he has marred "Another Mary's" happiness, but while she always said after her folks made her give him up, that she never would marry another one else, she was one of the most likeable girls and had more friends who truly loved her than anyone else I know. She is a wonder, pretty, talented in many ways, and I can't blame anyone for loving her almost to pieces. But what is she going to do?

Shall I try to persuade her to let me tell the man, and so probably bring disgrace on both of them, but probably get some financial help for "Another Mary", and shall I let her to fight her own battle. When I left her she said "God is the only one who I would ask for help and He has forsaken me," but she said all this with never a tear, altho it is just about killing her.

If you print this Mary, I hope a lot of girls, who are seen parking along the roadsides and like places will take "Another Mary's" experience to heart, and think how quickly and easily happiness, content, honor, etc., can be brought to an end, and not only for you, but those dear and good to you.

I thank you very much, dear Mary Gordon, and hope you will suggest some way in which I might serve.—"A Flander's Field Sweetheart."

A If "Another Mary" has come to the end of her resources, I believe you should tell the man. It need not bring any publicity. He could help her without anyone knowing it.

If I remember "Mary's" letter rightly, she said she had enough money saved to carry her thru this time. However, twins are expensive privileges, are they not?

A Grateful Reader: Write to Dr. Brady or Dr. Copeland, care of The Journal, for information on care of the skin

Dear Mary Gordon: Please ask your readers for the poem, "They've got a brand new organ Sue; for all their fuss and lurch," etc. Thanks—Reader.

Dear Mary Gordon: Could you tell me in your column about the aluminum plates to clean silverware. I have heard of them, and would you know where I could find the firm that makes them. I enjoy your column very much and get so much good from them, as I am young and they are much help to me.—M. R.

A. If any of the readers know, I shall be glad to pass the information on. Will you send me a stamped, addressed envelope for personal reply?

Dear Mary Gordon: I am a girl thirteen years of age and I like very much a girl who is nine years old. I have been introduced to her but have always been rather embarrassed when I am around her because she has been told how dear I think she is. I would like very much to become better acquainted with her but I do not know how to proceed. I thought I would ask her to the movies, but that did not seem the right thing to do.

Please help me out.—Troubled.

A It would be nice to take her to the movies or to ask her over some evening when neither of you has to study or to stay all night with you. I am sure when you once get acquainted, there will be no further cause for worry.

TWO BILLS ARE STALLED

BONUS AND TAX CUT MEASURES ARE DELAYED.

Unless Senate Foregoes Easter Recess Adjusted Compensation Act Postponed Until Next Week.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The bonus bill and tax reduction today were stalled behind obstacles that threatened seriously to delay their final passage.

Senate disputes have prevented these measures from coming before the senate and unless that body decides to forego its usual Easter recess the adjusted compensation bill cannot be taken up before next week.

Both the bonus and the tax bills have been ready for discussion for nealy a week.

Senator Curtis, who will be in charge of the bonus bill on the floor has made arrangements to get it up as soon as the imigration bill is disposed of, but other pending matters may further delay action.

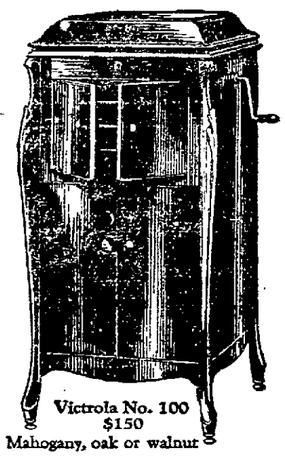

Only a little more than six weeks remain before the political conventions. The bonus will take a week and the tax bill—at the most conservative estimates—will require four weeks.

Catches Hand in Wringer.

NEBRASKA CITY, April 17.—Otto jr., two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Salzbrenner of this city, was painfully injured Wednesday when he caught his hand in an electric clothes wringer. The mother was in the yard at the time the child turned on the power and when she heard his screams and hastened back, she found the boy had put his left hand thru the wringer up to the waist.

CANNOT DECIDE WHAT TO DO ABOUT EXCLUSION.

May Make Some Gesture to Show Displeasure Over Act or Maintenance of Calm Attitude to Avoid Jingoism.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—President Coolidge today took under consideration what action he shall take on the new immigration bill excluding Japanese when the measure reaches the white house.

The president conferred in rapid succession with Secretary of State Hughes, known to oppose strongly the exclusion provision in the immigration measure; Senator Lodge, republican leader of the senate, who took the lead in supporting the exclusion provision because of Ambassador Hanihara's famou snote and Senator Willis, Ohio, who also voted for the exclusion measure.

One of the following two courses is likely:

1—That Mr. Coolidge will sign the measure and at the same time issue a statement explaining that no practical end would be served by a veto, in view of the temper of congress; that no affront is meant to Japan and that the administration has made it plain that it strongly opposes the enactment of such legislation against Japan

2—That the president will veto the measure under some arrangement such as a plan whereby Ambassador Hanihara would issue a statement clearing up the supposed threat of "grave consequences" in his note, which would give congress an opportunity to reconsider the passage of the exclusion bill in view of Hanihara's explanation.

WASHINGTON, April 17—The Japanese government now is seriously studying what steps to take in view of certain enactment into law of the measure excluding Japanese from the United States, it was learned today.

Two general alternatives are understood to be under consideration:

1—Some gesture plainly to show Japan's displeasure over the passage by congress of the exclusion bill.

2—The maintenance of a calm attitude in order to avoid flareups of jingoism.

Ambassador Hanihara expects to receive at any minute a report from his government in Tokio on the policy that the Japanese cabinet has decided to pursue.

Hanihara and his advisers in the Japanese embassy here are understood to favor adoption by Tokio of a policy of restraint.

Then at a favorable opportunity an effort can be made for a reconsideration with the hope of arriving at a settlement.

It was made plain in high Japanese quarters today that a veto by President Coolidge of the immigration bill would be greatly "appreciated" by Japan, even tho the measure were passed over the veto.

Split into a half dozen factions, the senate again today made another effort to reach an agreement upon immigration quotas so that the Reed bill might be disposed of.

Both republican and democratic sides are split over whether the 1890 or 1910 census should be used as a basis for quotas, whether 1, 2 or 3 per cent of the foreign population should be admitted or whether there should be complete exclusion.

TOKIO, April 17.—Friendship between Japan and the United States will remain unbroken altho the record may be "impaired" by the passage of the Japanese exclusion measure by congress, Premier Kiyoura of Japan declared today.

He indicated that the letter of Ambassador Hanihara which created such a sensation in the United States may have been interpreted in a way not intended by Japan and pointed out that it was written in a "language foreign to us."

"I deeply regret passage of the measure," Premier Kiyoura said, "for such dractic action seems unnecessary. The whole history of international relations between Japan and the United States indicates a reasonable spiirt.

"We were hoping for only a nominal privilege."

He then declared that if Japan's position was unclear it might have been because Ambassador Hanihara was forced to write his letter in the English language which, to him, is a foreign tongue.

Kiyoura continued to emphasize that even tho this incident may impair a long record of unbroken friendship between the two nations it in no way means there will be a breach of frienship.

"If concessions on the immigration question are denied us," he said. "we will regret it and we will hope for further consideration."

He added another expression of appreciation of the "impressive sympathy" Japan received from America during the earthquake disaster and the financial support given Japan at that time.

There was some discussion here today of the possibility of Ambassador Hanihara offering his resignation but it was not considered a serious probability.

No anti-American demonstrations were looked for. Most of the agitators an dprobable leaders in such incidents were busy campaigning in connection with the Japanese elections involving domestic questions and had little time to devote to organizing any anti-American movements.

BURLEIGH DECLINES TO PAY

Wants Supreme Court to Say If Lad Came Under Workmen Compensation Act.

J. R. Burleigh has appealed to the supreme court from the award of Judge Broady of $900 compensation to a former employe named Andrew Boyce, a minor, and directing also the payment of $700 or $800 doctor and hospital fees. Burleigh conducts a chicken hatchery, and kept a gun in the office to keep pigeons off his feed grounds. Among the boy's duties was to watch an incubator, and this meant evening hours. Another boy named Rex Hezeling took the gun tol oad it, and the weapon was accidentally discharged. The boy lost the use of his right leg from thec harge that entered it. Burleigh said that the accident dod not occur in the course of the lad's employment while Judge Broady held that the gun was a part of the plant equipment and was kept where it would naturally attract boys of the age of these two

DE SAGAN TO SELL DOMAIN

PRINCIPALITY OF 500 MILES OFFERED AT AUCTION.

Husband of Anna Gould Would Sell Sagan, Situated Between Silesia and Brandenburg With 65,000 People.

PARIS, April 17.—An entire nation, with 65,000 people, a river "full of excellent fish," a history that goes back to the days of Wallenstein, castles, forests and royal chateaux, was offered for the auction block here today.

It is the little principality of Sagan, situated between Silesia and Brandenburg and covering about 500 miles of territory rich in historic German legends.

The offer is made by the duke of Talleyrand De Perigord, husband of Anna Gould, "serene highness" of of the independent principality.

The only qualifications are that the duke retain the title of "serene highness" of Sagan and that the price shall be fixed by the duke's minister of finance.

The duke, in making public his astounding offer today, described his country with all the matter of fact frankness of an auctioneer's catalog.

Sagan, he said, is a "complete, independent principality, situated between Silesie and Brandenburg, area about 500 square miles, 65,000 inhabitants, capital city of 15,000, chateaux, gothic church, complete city hall with reception saloons, bronze statue of Frederick III, the river Bober with plenty of fish and divers fields, forests, etc."

The title of Sagan, the duke explained, actually is held by his fifteen-year-old son, Charles, to whom the duke gave the country as a birthda present.

The principality has existed since 1649, when the king of Bohemia gave it to his great leader Wallenstein and has been in the Talleyrand family since 1845.

Both the French and German governments must consent to the sale, but the duke declared this is a "mere formality" as the Talleyrand family is the sole owner of the domain

"All I ask," the duke said in an interview, "is that I be allowed to retain my title of 'Serene Highness of Sagan' and that my minister of finance be taken into consultation as to the price."

Lippincotts Gazettier list Sagan as:

"A town in Prussia, in Silesia, capital of the Mediatized principality of Sagan, forty-eight miles northwest of Liegnitz, on the river Bober.

"It has remains of its old fortifications, several fine churches, some ancient dwellings and a chateau situated in a beautiful park and containing art collections.

"The town has iron foundries and breweries and there are manufacturers of cotton and woolen stuffs, pottery, glass and paper. Population in 1900—13,376."

FLYERS HELD AT CHIGNIK

AWAIT ARRIVAL OF MARTIN AND HIS MACHINE.

Seattle Needs Repairing—British Journey Is Resumed at Athens With Cairo as the Objective.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—A new motor for the plane Seattle, flagship of the round the world flight, is on its way to Alaska, the war department said today.

The flight will be delayed a week or more until the engine is installed and other repairs made to the Seattle, which was forced down on the Alaskan coast.

Latest advices to the department from Major Martin, commander of the squadron who, with his mechanic was lost for twenty-four hours in the Alaskan wastes, are that he is none the worse for his night of exposure.

Martin is forwarding a detailed report of the trouble which caused his forced landing. Brief dispatches from Lieutenant Smith, second in command indicated Martin's trouble was due to faulty lubrication.

CORDOVA, Alaska, April 17.—The United States army's round the world flight was held up at Chignik today as the three planes which reached that fishing station Tuesday waited for arrival of Maj. Frederick Martin in the air cruiser Seattle.

Martin and his mechanician, Sergeant Harvey, were with their plane which was reported being towed to Kanatak after being forced to descend near Portage bay.

Radiograms from the destroyer Hull, which found the two airmen said the Seattle would need repairing before it could proceed to Chignik. A leaking crank case was reported the case of the big plane's forced descent, which caused hours of anxiety beofre the air cruiser was located.

ATHENS, April 17.—The British round the world flight was resumed today when the big amphibian plane commanded by Maj. Stuart MacLaren took off from the aerodrom at Old Phaleron for Cario.

The airmen hoped to make the long trip in a single non-stop flight, one of the longest legs of the world girdling effort.

Weather was favorable and a big crowd cheered the aviators as their big plane winged its way out across the blue of the Mediterranean.

The plane took off at 11:30 a. m. after an earlier attempt which was abandoned because of lack of a favorablewind.

The British flyers were out early and the big amphibian was tuned up and ready to start shortly after daybreak. After circling the harbor, however, Major MacLaren brought the ship back to her anchorage to await a more favorable breeze.

The wind changed shortly after 11 o'clock and MacLaren then headed for Egypt.

AGED MAN TO SPRING TRAP

FATHER OF SLAIN BOY TO HAVE HIS REVENGE.

His to Be Hand to Plunge to Death Negro Who Killed His Son and Assaulted Boy's Girl Companion.

MIAMI, Ariz., April 17.—Unless the supreme court interferes, W. H. Grosh will spring the trap June 20 that will end the life of William B. Ward, negro slayer of his son, Theodore Wilbur Grosh, a student at the University of Arizona.

Warden Sims of the state penitentiary has granted the aged man's request that he be permitted to have that bit of revenge.

Ward was convicted in the district court at Florence of stabbing young Grosh to death on the Apache trail near here December 26 and assaulting his girl companion, Miss Maxine Menelly. Sentenced to hang June 20 after a new trial was denied him, the negro has served notice of an appeal.

In the meantime "Old Man" Grosh who has been both a father and mother to his six children since the death of his wife fifteen years ago, sits beside an oil lamp in his little cabin beneath the towering mesa on the outskirts of Miami, his heart filled with bitterness.

He even resents the fact that the appeal to the supreme court may delay execution twenty days. He has no doubts but that the conviction will be upheld.

His only solace lies in the hope that his own hand will take the life of the negro, who, mad with drink took the life of his youngest son.

"If you spring the trap you won't see the negro die," Warden Sims told him.

"I'd rather have the satisfaction of killing him," the old father replied and thus it has been arranged.

Tears streamed down his cheeks as he told of his slain son.

"Ted was my baby boy," he said. "It took nearly everything I had to keep him in college. Now all I have left in the world is Musa May (his fifteen-year-old daughter). I've done everything on earth but steal to raise them."

Sentiment of the mining community is strongly back of the old man's desire for revenge.

George Elman was made street commissioned. The appointment was one much sought for by aspirants to jobs.

The wedding of Miss Florence Farwell Holmes to Dr. Charles Aaron Hull at the Holy Trinity church was an elaborate one.

MY DAUGHTER WOULD CRY AT EVERYTHING

Nervous and Irritable. By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Became Entirely Normal

Clinton, Wisconsin.—"My daughter was in a very run-down condition, and was irritable, and would cry at every little thing she was so weak and nervous. As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped me when I was a girl I gave it to her to build her up, and the results were all that we could wish for. I wish that every mother with growing girls would try it for these troubles girls often have. I had taken it myself before my girl was born, and she was one of the nicest babies any one could wish to have. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to women and girls and cannot praise it too highly."—Mrs. I. A. HOLFORD, Box 48, Clinton, Wisconsin.

Mothers can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve their daughters of those troubles they so often have. They know from experience the value of the Vegetable Compound in the treatment of these complaints and many, like Mrs. Holford, give it to their daughters.

THE LOVE THAT LASTS

A Husband's Way.

While Elaine was looking about her gloomy apartment minus its living room furniture and bemoaning the fact that she and Billy had quarreled, she heard his key in the latch.

Would he be angry? Had he come home merely to continue their first real misunderstanding and taunt her about taking tea with Ben Tarbel? She did not hear him whistle as usual, but she put the chops on the stove and began to prepare the potatoes.

Then, from the kitchen door, she caught a glimpse of her husband. His mouth sagged at the corners and his eyes looked tired and worn, but he had a tissue paper cornucopia which looked very much like flowers.

Presently he came out to the kitchen with a gorgeous bouquet of roses, jonquils and early tulips. He smiled, held out his arms to her and asked Elaine mildly, "Am I forgiven?"

Forgiven? Elaine gave a delighted little laugh and kissed her husband tenderly while her heart raced with the thought that poverty, the loss of a job and even their first quarrel had brought them nearer than she had supposed two stubborn individuals could ever be.

"I'm apt to say or do anything," apologized Billy. "When a fellow is out of work and is doing his best to get more he's a bear. I knew you had only gone in to have a sip of tea with Ben because you met by chance and because you have such a big heart that you wanted to sympathize with him over the loss of his wife. But I felt angry. I was mad at the world. I started down to the club to take dinner alone: I even gave my order to the waiter and then I saw some pink roses on the table and they made me think of you!"

This sounded like Ben Tarbel, but it was plain, sensible old Billy and Elaine appreciated the compliment all the more for coming from him.

Later, as husband and wife dined from the kitchen table upon burned chops and half-cooked potatoes the telephone rang. Something told Elaine it was Ben and she was right.

"No, Tarbel, there isn't any explanation necessary," she heard her husband say. "I know Elaine and that settles that. Was I overwrought and flushed? Sorry, old chap. It was just because I'm having the deuce of a time to land a job. Come around some evening when I get one and you'll see what a lamb I can be. It's all right. No, you needn't feel that you have to avoid Elaine. Thank heaven, I do not have to be jealous."

Once more they resumed their dinner, only to be interrupted by Betty Dana Beadle.

"I'm giving my divorce dinner tonight," she said, "and I want you both to get into your glad rags at once and go up to my apartment. I didn't tell you before because I wanted it to come as a huge surprise. Pooh, don't eat those frightfully burned chops. Get into your dinner togs and please don't keep my taxi waiting too long!"

Tomorrow—A Fateful Toast.

Ohio Man Who Was in Chicago Sold Rights to Device to Make Cars Go Faster.

CHICAGO, April 17.—George R. Berner of Wauseon, O., had dreams of making a lot of money thru selling a device to make Fords go eight miles an hour faster than they ever went before. But today George's dream is to get his $5,000 back. He has the three salesmen locked up in the city jail. They are booked as John A. Perry, Phillip Mullen and M. J. Maloney.

REPARATIONS COMMITTEE DISCUSSES GERMAN NOTE.

Acceptance of Berlin Received Late Wednesday—Endorse the Dawes Report as Basis for Solution.

PARIS, April 17.—The reparations commission met at 10:30 a. m. today to discuss the German communication accepting the Dawes report in principle, as a basis for settlement of the tangled reparations question.

The German acceptance was delivered late Wednesday. It is a brief document accepting the Dawes report as a basis for solution of the long argued problem.

Owing to the brevity of the German note the Paris press today is unanimous in believing conditions may come later.

"Germany must be impressed early," Le Martin says, "that certain important laws must be passed and put into execution before the sincerity of her acceptance is convincing."

Stops! within 32 feet — going 25 miles an hour!

THAT is what properly adjusted Rusco-lined, two-wheel brakes will do in actual operation. The standard set by Automotive Engineers and Police Departments for a stop-test when the car is going 25 miles an hour is 58 feet.

Rusco will stop your car in 32 feet—going 25 miles an hour.

Furthermore, in this test made by an automobile manufacturer, for his own information and benefit, Rusco stops in 82 feet, going 40 miles an hour. In brake-tests made in city safety campaigns 148 feet is the standard for this speed. With death just ahead 65 feet leeway is a life-time!

NOTHING will stop a car but the brakes—or an obstruction. Accidents are cruel and costly teachers. Be sure always that your brakes afford full braking power. Help to prevent accidents. Know the joy of saving lives. Brake inspection is your protection. But to be sure, line your brakes with Rusco. Then you know they'll hold.

Here are the reasons why Rusco Brake Lining "Commands the Car!"

THE best asbestos the earth produces—long fibre Canadian Crysotile—goes into Rusco. Ordinary looms cannot make it. None but the giant 10-ton looms, patented, built and used only by the Russell Co., could properly weave this mineral-metal fabric. Crysotile Asbestos, without shoddy, insures Rusco's braking surface.

Rusco out-tests all the standards set for a super-quality lining.

With Rusco on your brakes you'll know they'll hold. Careful buying makes sure your safety. Rusco long fibre Crysotile lining costs no more than the shoddy kind. Insist that the repair man or dealer give you Rusco.

- Rusco Mineral-Metal Brake Lining
- Rusco Towing Line

Your repair man pays more for Rusco than for any other brand of lining. But he doesn't charge you more.

IN GIVING you Rusco—the finest quality brake lining it is possible for the repair man to obtain—he accepts a less profit than if he sold you any other brand.

If he recommended and sold you a cheaper grade it would cost you the same, but he would make three times as much profit.

You can depend upon such a man. It takes time and money to reline your brakes. It isn't a job you want done every day. When your brakes do need relining be sure to get the benefit of Rusco superiority and the conscientious service of a repair man who is willing to take less profit in order to give you a better job.

THE LITTLE FLOWER OF MANY NAMES.

"OH, you pretty snowball!" Dotty exclaimed when she happened to see a beautiful cluster of white blossoms. "You surely do look like a snowball. What are you, anyway?"

"Just what you called me," laughed the pretty blossom. "Wild Snowball is my name. Don't you think that is a pretty name? Goodness, but it's nice to have so many names. One certainly does feel important."

"Have you so many names?" asked Dotty, all excited, dropping to her knees in the grass. "What else do they call you, pretty Snowball?"

"Well, some folks call me New Jersey Tea," replied the happy blossom.

"New Jersey Tea!" Dotty laughed. "What a funny name to give such a lovely blossom! How in the world did they happen to call you such a silly name?"

"Are Your Roots Red?"

"Silly nothing!" retorted the white blossom. "It's quite a fine name, I think."

"But why should they think of calling you that?" asked Dotty.

"Because they say that in early times, the colonial housewives used to strip off the leaves of our plants, dry them and make a delicious tea. This they used in place of imported tea. Then during the war, the American troops were glad to use New Jersey Tea. So I feel proud of that name. You'll laugh when you hear my other name."

"Another?" interrupted Dotty. "Gracious! that will make three names. You're almost as bad as I am. I have three names too. What's the other one?"

"Red-root," laughed the white blossom. "Isn't that a funny name for so white a blossom lady?"

"But why that title?" asked Dotty. "Are your roots red?"

"Yes, they are a wee bit reddish," replied the white blossom, "but I guess I was given the name of Red-root not so much from the color of my roots as from the fact that they make a cinnamon-colored dye from them."

"One would never guess that by looking at your pretty snow-white blossoms," laughed Dotty. "Anyway, little blossom of many names, I certainly think you are very pretty, indeed. Add to your beauty, your usefulness, and I should say you were mighty lucky."

Dotty very carefully pulled all the rough weeds away from Wild Snowball's roots and sprinkled her pretty blossoms with water from the little brook.

After that, every time Dotty passed through that part of the woods, she stopped to chat with the interesting little blossom with many names.

The Way Lillian Got Rid of the Detective.

"WON'T you be seated?" I indicated a chair, and made my voice formally courteous as the detective who had been trailing the Harrison children came to a halt just inside our living-room door.

His armor of arrogance had been badly dented by Lillian's lofty manner and the slangy gibing of Mrs. Marks, and he had somewhat the air of an animal at bay as his small eyes glanced rapidly from me to Lillian, who had set down her bag, and was engaged in taking off her hat and coat. Without a word she had achieved the effect of blotting the man's presence from her knowledge and he was as deflated as an exploded tire.

"No, thanks. I'll stand right here."

The words were a sulky growl, and when I also turned my back upon him, and moved toward the window, he broke into rough, hesitant speech.

"See here, you dames! What's the idea of all this side? Maybe you don't know who I am. I'll trouble you to——"

Lillian whirled and advanced upon him with the long, lithe step that is characteristic of her. She came so close to him that her outstretched hand, with pointing forefinger, almost touched his face, and he stepped precipitately backward with the ludicrous effect of flattening himself against the wall.

"You'll trouble us to do nothing except see that you leave the building," she said icily.

With a ludicrously hesitant glance at her, he flung open his coat and exhibited a metal star attached to his vest. He must have guessed we shared Mrs. Marks's knowledge of its impotence, but he evidently never lost an opportunity to flash it.

"Yes, we see it," Lillian said, with a maddening smile. "And now that you've gone through your exercises, suppose you say whatever's on your mind. Mrs. Graham and I are very busy women, but we can give you two minutes."

Plain Talk.

She glanced at her wrist-watch, and then expectantly at the detective. His face held so many colors that I was afraid he might have a stroke—he was of apoplectic build—and he stammered incoherently:

"You—you—won't sing so loud in a little while. Kidnapping is a pretty serious offense, you'll find out."

"I've heard so," Lillian assented nonchalantly and then her voice hardened.

"Look here, my friend," she said. "We've been pretty patient with you, but we haven't any more time to waste on you or your conversation. If it's any comfort to you, I'll grant you that you've done a pretty nifty piece of work in trailing those Harrison youngsters. Frankly, I misjudged you. I didn't think it was in you.

"I'll confess you had me guessing for a few minutes to-night," she smiled. "But if you haven't exhausted your brains sleuthing, you'll realize that the game is through. The children are out of the country under the guardianship of their mother's nearest relatives. You neither can find them nor could you bring them back if you did trace them. The best thing you can do is to go back to the chivalric gentlemen who hired you and squeeze all you can out of them, which I'll wager you won't be much.

"I'll Put These——"

"You might tell them from us," she declared, "that the children won't be back until their legal guardianship is established, and that won't be very long. And for yourself, let me advise you to consult some recognized authority before you spill such reckless words as "kidnapping" around. Now, you may go."

She swung the door open, then passed him swiftly and opened the door from the apartment corridor into the big hall outside. There she stood, waiting. The detective glared at me and then at her, but as if hypnotized, he walked out of the door, contenting himself with a feeble:

"You ain't heard the last of this, and don't you think it," from the head of the curving stairway.

Lillian led the way back into our rooms, waiting until the doors were closed, and then sinking down upon the couch in a fit of laughter, in which I nervously detected a note of hysteria. But she pulled herself together in a few seconds, and picked up her coat and hat.

"I'll just put these in your wardrobe if there's room," she said casually, and was in the bedroom before I remembered what the doors of that wardrobe concealed.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
Since you are always giving such splendid advice to girls I am coming for some myself.

1.—I am a girl of nineteen, and am engaged to be married. I would like to know if you think it wrong for me to go with other young men besides the one to whom I am engaged. Since he lives a long way from my home, I only see him once in about six weeks or thereabout. Now, he doesn't mind my going out with other young men, but people talk about me. The young men with whom I go are all friends of both my fiance and me and they know I am engaged. I am a social worker and it is necessary for me to go out quite often and of course I can't go alone.

2.—What time should my fiance leave when he comes to call at night?

3.—Is it proper for me to call at his home when I am in the same town he lives in?

4.—Do you think eight months too long to be engaged?

5.—Who should make the wedding plans, he or I?

6.—Who shall plan for the dinner?

7.—When one is going to go to housekeeping right after marriage, is it proper to leave for home right after the wedding or should time be spent with one's people? J. R. C.

J. R. C.—It is not considered exactly the right thing to go out with other young men when you are engaged. However, as you say your fiance is aware of this and approves it, it would be perfectly proper, if you are chaperoned.

2.—From ten thirty to eleven o'clock.

3.—Yes, if you are properly chaperoned.

4.—No.

5.—They should be talked over by both of you and planned mutually.

6.—The family of the bride.

7.—It is proper to leave after the dinner and reception and go to your own home.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a girl in my teens. I am five feet four inches in height and have many times been told I'm pretty. I have been going with a young man for several months but all at once he decided he would rather have a prettier girl. I met him on the street the other day and he walked on by—didn't even tip his hat.

Please tell me how to win his love again. SWEETIE.

SWEETIE: A young man who would deliberately act so rudely, is not worthy of your friendship, my dear. Just forget him, and take an interest in your other acquaintances.

How Easter Came to Be Observed the World Over.

EASTER SUNDAY, greatest feast of Christendom, the day of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ from the dead, a movable feast the correct date for which has created many controversies and once came near wrecking the early Christian Church—who shall say when it was first celebrated and by whom?

The name "Easter" comes from German mythology. The Anglo-Saxon goddess of Spring was "Easter." But this is only its English title. "Paques" in French, "Pasqua" in Italian, "Pascha" in Latin, point to its origin. Easter comes from the Hebrew Passover.

Christ's resurrection occurred, according to the Gospels, at Passover time. And as Passover was a season determined by astronomers so Easter became a movable feast.

The early Christians continued to observe the Hebrew ceremonial days, and the Passover, with a new conception to it, as Christ the true Paschal Lamb, continued to be observed, and became the Christian Easter. The Latin expression "Agnus Dei, qui tollis peccata mundi,"

There Was a Huge Controversy About the Date of Easter.

"Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world," shows how the early Christians adopted this idea. And the "Agnus Dei" is intoned by a million priests every day in the Catholic service of the mass.

While the Jewish Christians continued to observe the Passover season, the Greek and Roman Christians—to whom the Jewish ceremonies meant nothing — regarded Easter as the anniversary of the resurrection. Western Christians began celebrating Easter on Sunday. Eastern Christians observed Saturday.

As early as 197 A. D. there was a huge controversy about the date of Easter. Victor, Bishop of Rome, notified Polycarpes, Metropolitan of Proconsular Asia, whose provinces still followed the Jewish date for Easter, that he must conform with the rest of Christendom.

At this time the Roman emperors were at the height of their power, and Christianity was an unrecognized religion. In fact, every few weeks they burned Christians at the stake or boiled them in oil in Rome. But from his catacomb, Victor issued his fiat.

Polycarpes refused to obey and would have been excommunicated had not the bishops from Gaul pleaded that the matter was not important enough to disrupt a church so weak. The Asiatics continued their usage until Constantine's Council of Nicaea established Sunday as Easter Day in 325 A. D.

Nicaet, by the way, is not the modern Nice, but a city in Asia Minor.

During the Middle Ages ignorance of astronomy caused much difficulty in deciding the proper date of Easter. Changes in the calendar adopted by some countries and ignored by others caused Christian countries to observe Easter on dates sometimes varying two weeks.

It was not until 1752 that England adopted the calendar of Gregory the Great, and Russia only adopted it under the Bolshevists.

The various popular observances, such as Easter eggs, are comparatively modern customs. The brilliant illumination of Catholic altars dates from very early times, and is a development of the Paschal Candle.

In Durham Cathedral on Easter, before the Reformation in England, a candle thirty-two feet high, was set in a candlestick thirty-eight feet high, and of polished brass. It reached nearly to the roof and was lighted from an opening above. After Whitsuntide the remains of the candle were made into candles for the poor.

The rule for determining Easter is as follows:

The first Sunday after the full moon following the vernal equinox. This, of course, varies in various longitudes, but variations are averaged nowadays and a uniform day agreed upon in Western Europe and America, though the Eastern Church still clings to its own methods of determination.

Unusually Lovely Ways to Decorate the Easter Table.

EASTER is late this year, and functions for Spring festivals are already under consideration. Spring blossoms are plentiful and have been for some time, both in florist shops and outdoors.

For a formal Easter dinner it is wise to decide on vari-colored hyacinths as decorations. They are very lovely and their season is so short. Use a white damask dinner cloth or one of lace, a runner or an elaborate mat set. In the center place a Louis XIV. gilded willow basket filled with the hyacinths. On top of the handle arrange a big bow, using a strip of ribbon to match every flower in color. Yellow paper butterflies may be attached to the water-glasses for place-cards. White and gold china is always prettiest for formal dinners.

Beside each plate, in a large papier-mache rose petal use candied rose, mint and geranium leaves and violets. Little old-fashioned bouquets of tea-rose buds may be used as souvenirs for the ladies and sprays of white Roman hyacinth for the men's buttonholes. This makes a dainty and attractive table to look upon. Care, of course, should be taken to garnish and color the foods where necessary to harmonize with the decorations.

A more elaborate and costly decoration is to use a width of white satin lengthwise and crosswise on the polished table with a firmly-fastened edge of smilax or flat galix leaves. In the center use a flat, gilt, oblong basket of Easter lilies. Green and gold china adds a decorative note, with green candles in silver sticks and green and silver shades.

Small baskets of marzepan green peas may serve for bonbons and a card attached to the handle of the basket may be used as a place-card. Here again, the food should aid in emphasizing the colors of the decoration scheme.

For an at-home wedding table, arranged for an afternoon wedding in buffet style, it is best to cover the table with a damask cloth, then use elaborate center decorations. A big wedding-bell tipped onto its side and filled with bride roses is pretty, or a mammoth wedding-slipper filled with flowers. The wedding-cake, handsomely decorated, with a wedding-bell hanging above it and a fringe of small bells hanging from it, makes a suitable centerpiece. The bells also make pretty bulb holders.

The round buffet table with a mass of greenery in the center is frequently used with Easter lilies in the center. At one wedding recently attended, the wedding-cake was mounted on a flat-topped tea-wagon, and after the bride had cut it was wheeled away to a convenient point and served, each piece in a wee paper slipper.

The wedding breakfast is such a convenient function that it quite resigns one to a morning or high noon wedding. A dainty lacy breakfast set of mats of fine linen may be used, those in pastel shades being permissible. Then a prettily-arranged basket of real fruit in the center and a bouquet at each place, tied with ribbons to match the flowers, complete the table decorations. The cards on the bouquets are place-cards as well.

The wedding breakfast is a five-course meal for the two families and intimate friends of the contracting parties. If wedding-cake is used it is boxed as a souvenir without the formal ceremony of the bride's cutting it. A pretty idea is to seat bride and groom at the head and foot of the table with a mother at each right hand, the fathers at the left hand, if they are present.

An egg tea is quite an appropriate function at Easter time and is a pretty way of discharging social obligations. After the reception the hostess leads the way to the dining-room. The decorations are in yellow and white and in egg formation, where this is possible. Egg salads, egg sandwiches, cakes and bonbons in egg shapes, ice cream in egg moulds and novel egg dishes may be served. The idea is unique and is well worth planning.

ODD and INTERESTING FACTS from EVERYWHERE

The yellow jasmine has recently been adopted as the State flower of South Carolina. The yellow jasmine is common in South Carolina and in many other parts of the South. It is often called Carolina jasmine.

The name "divine Sarah" was first applied to Sarah Bernhardt by Oscar Wilde. Writing to Lewis Hind, the French critic, Wilde said:

"Were I a king, I would give half of my kingdom, the half of my empire, the half of my crown, to know that divine Sarah, and I would make her known all over the world." The famous sobriquet stuck to her the rest of her life and after that she was known as the "divine Sarah" throughout the civilized world. When he was first introduced to Sarah Bernhardt he told her that her voice sounded to him like "singing stars."

The Romans had no symbols to indicate mathematical processes and operations. Originally they expressed every word and operation in words of full length. Their mathematical calculations were never simplified further than to abbreviate centum, 100, into C; mille, 1000, into M and so on. Figuring in the days of Cesar was clumsy business. For details all calculations were performed on the abacus, an apparatus resembling the Chinese swan-pan or counting frame affairs now used in kindergarten work.

The Roman abacus contained seven long and seven shorter rods or bars. There were four beads on the long bars and one on the shorter ones. The beads on the short bars denoted five. The first long bar was marked I, the second X, the third C and so on up to millions. Suppose Cicero wanted to write the number 25. He would push up the X beads and pull down the V-bead on the corresponding bar. If he wished to subtract three from 25 he would push up the V-bead and two I-beads, leaving the two X-beads where they were. There were additional bars for calculating fractions. The Romans were never reputed especially good mathematicians and they contributed practically nothing to the science.

YOUR HEALTH

- Guard Yourself Wisely - If You're a Lead-Worker

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

THERE are conditions known as "occupational diseases." They are so called because persons employed in certain occupations are peculiarly liable to them.

One of the most common of occupational or industrial diseases is lead poisoning.

Painters and workers in lead smelters are the most frequent sufferers from this condition, although it is by no means confined to them. Certain cosmetics contain sufficient amounts of lead to cause danger to the users of these artificial aids to beauty. In wine and cider establishments lead in poisonous quantities is sometimes introduced into the beverages while they are being passed through lead pipes.

Lead is absorbed into the system in several different ways. The commonest probably is through the skin. Its vapor may be breathed into the lungs and cause the poisoning, or the lead may be taken into the stomach.

Lead poisoning is usually due to long-continued exposure to the effects of the metal. Acute lead poisoning—that is, poisoning due to brief and transient exposure— is not common.

Usually the symptoms develop gradually. Anemia and a muddy, unhealthy appearance are noted. A blue line along the gums is a distinguishing feature of lead poisoning and very dependable when it is present. But this sign is often lacking even in cases of pronounced poisoning.

Examination of the urine always shows the presence of lead when a considerable quantity has been absorbed in any way.

Colic is the active and most common symptom of the disease. This is called "lead colic." The attack may come on with great suddenness. The pain is violent, not unlike the cutting, griping pain of any other form of abdominal colic.

Paralysis of one or more muscles is apt to occur in lead poisoning. "Wrist-drop" is commonly associated with the condition. The hands drops limply, so that it is impossible for the painter to use his brush. Sometimes the paralysis attacks the legs, but the arms or hands are the parts usually affected.

There may be involvement of the brain and the blood-vessels, causing convulsions or delirium.

Prevention is more important than treatment. Workers in the metal should wear gloves and other protecting devices. They should use soap and water profusely. Cleanliness and attention to the general health—particularly to the intestinal tract—will go a long way toward preventing the trouble.

The first warning symptoms of lead poisoning should be heeded and immediate attention should be given to warding off the more serious effects of the trouble. Workers in lead or paint must never forget the danger of the occupation.

Answers to Health Questions

A READER. Q.—My eyes become very red when I read or when I am in a strong light. Will you kindly advise me what to do for this?

A.—This is probably due to eye strain. Bathe your eyes several times during the day with a warm solution of boracic acid. You should consult an eye specialist for an examination and he will tell you whether or not it is necessary for you to wear glasses.

* * *

A. Q.—I am a boy, nineteen years of age, height five feet, nine inches. What is my correct weight?

2.—How can moles be removed from the forehead?

A.—The average weight of a boy of your age and height is about one hundred and forty-five pounds.

2.—Moles can be removed from the forehead by an electric needle. This should be done by an expert.

* * *

MRS. A. G. S. Q.—Will you kindly tell me what causes a cracking sound in my knee joints?

A.—This is due to the lack of synovial fluid in the joints. At night massage the parts with cod liver oil. This will tend to help your condition.

* * *

J. L. A. Q.—Will you advise me as to what makes me dream every night and wake up in the morning tired and with a headache?

A.—You probably have some form of indigestion which causes uneasy sleep and rest. Try eating a light evening meal and be sure to sleep with the windows open wide in your bedroom. This may help you to overcome this condition.

* * *

B. L. Q.—How can I get rid of superfluous hair on my arms and limbs?

2.—What would you advise for red, rough hands?

A.—Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a detailed answer to this inquiry.

2.—Apply cold cream at night to soften the hands.

* * *

MRS. H. H. Q.—The enamel has worn off one of my teeth. I have been to a dentist and he told me to wash my mouth with milk of magnesia. What would you suggest?

A.—It is best to follow the dentist's advice about your teeth as he knows the condition best.

* * *

J. C. B. Q.—Will you tell me whether or not —— will tend to increase one's height?

A.—I cannot say whether or not this preparation will increase your height as I do not know of the results of taking this medicine.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Describes a Beige Frock for Afternoon.

"MADAME, I want some kind of little frock that would be ideal for Summer afternoon occasions and still could be worn for informal dinner parties," said a decided young customer who came into the shop to-day.

"I'm showing any number of models that just answer that description," Madame assured her.

"I go to a rather gay watering place in the Summer and there are many demands for gowns of that type," the client told Madame.

"Many of my smartest clients ask for just the same thing," Madame said.

"They find it most satisfactory," she continued, "to wear something for late afternoon that is quite as suitable for informal dinners."

"Do let me see some of your frocks," the client said enthusiastically as she straightened her hat and seated herself on a comfortable divan.

Madame asked me to don "Springtime."

It's a lovely beige model that has been quite a favorite with the clients who have many social engagements on their calendars.

Soon after I advanced slowly from the lighted stage, down the salon, turning so she could see the beautiful frock from every angle.

"What a heavenly shade that soft, creamy beige material is!" the client exclaimed.

"I find it's just the tint that is lovely both in daylight and under the artificial lights of evening," Madame explained to her.

"What is the material?" the client asked.

"It's very soft georgette crepe," Madame replied.

"I had the lace dyed to match it exactly," she added.

The lace made a very deep inset in the overskirt that dropped over the slim straight skirt of the frock. Another band of the lace was set in just below the little square yoke that finished the frock.

Beige Georgette and Beige Lace Combine Beautifully in This Lovely Dress.

"I find that the little square yokes that form tiny sleeves are youthful and becoming to practically every one," Madame said.

The yoke which finished this frock was of georgette, covered all over with a wiggly design worked in soutache braid. It formed a smart contrast to the lace.

"That's lovely, with just the touch of color in the narrow, brown ribbon that finished the frock," the client said. "And I like the way the overskirt flies back when the manikin walks."

"Would you like to try the original model on and let me make one for you?" Madame asked.

"I'd like to try it," the client said. "And I'm sure that will mean I can't go out without ordering one."

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

FRIDAY, APRIL 18.

Friendly planets govern this day according to the lunar transits. Jupiter, Venus and Neptune are most kindly disposed. Under their benignant rule there should be progress in business and increase financially, and the Venus should bring a pleasant and prosperous rule into the realm of all domestic, social and romantic affairs. Under the Neptune figure, new projects may be considered, especially as they relate to corporations, diplomacy or secret orders.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a prosperous and happy year. There is promise of increase in business and money, with pleasant and prosperous home conditions. Love affairs should thrive and new ventures flourish. A child born on this day will be accomplished, popular and respected and make a success of its undertakings.

Child-birth

WHEN the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Harriman, Scranton, Pa., says: "With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., EA-75, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores.

Beautiful patterns at 90c yard

IT is surprising, even to us who admire these beautiful printed fabrics immensely, the splendid business we are doing in these new cretonnes. In particular we mention the KESWICK PRINTS and VELEDGE which give the effects of printed velvets and are beautiful for living rooms, sun rooms, bed rooms, etc. For slip-covers, valances, draperies, etc., we know of no cretonnes more attractive than we are showing at this low price — 90c yd.

Many Have Appendicitis; Don't Know It

Much so-called stomach trouble is really chronic appendicitis. This can often be relieved by simple glycerine, buckthorn bark, etc., as mixed in Adlerika. Most medicines act only on lower bowel but Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels, and removes all gases and poisons. Brings out matter you never thought was in your system. Pitchers Show Unusually Well in Early Games

LOW SCORES TELL A STORY THAT IS NEW

Either Hurlers "Boiled Out" Better Than Usual in South or Rule on Using Fewer New Balls Is Answer.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Tight pitching, unusual for this time of the year, has been a feature of the infant season in the major leagues. The good form shown by the pitchers may be the result of good conditioning in the south or may come from the new rule curtailing use of new balls or may be a combination of both.

Low Scores Prevail Now.

Low score games prevailed in the two openings days. Lefty Cooper, the Pittsburgh veteran let the Reds down with five hits yesterday. Jack Bentley, the Giant southpaw, gave the Robins four hits and held them hitless for six innings. Jack Quinn, the veteran Red Sox spit baller held the slugging Yankees to six hits, three of which were scattered over the first eight innings. Ed Rommell, the Athletic star, stopped the Senators with five hits and Whitehill, the Detroit rookie, made the mauling Cleveland Indians content with seven hits.

With the Boston Braves on top, the National league standing presents a strange appearance today. Pictures of the standing probably will be taken by Christy Mathewson, to be hung on the walls of the club house for balm late in the fall. When the Brooklyn Robins were on top yesterday, squire Ebbets told them—"you're out in front now, my lads and stay there." But they had only one day of their glory. With the Phils in last place, the other league has one familiar appearance at least.

The American league also is slightly upset with the Cleveland Indians in last place and the Detroit Tigers on top. The other clubs are all tied for second place. The Tigers probably will remain within striking distance of their present position but the Indians will not trail for long.

Yanks Must Snap Soon.

The Yankees in losing to the Red Sox yesterday started to bear out some of the predictions that were made about them. The Yanks have to lose some games but championship teams do not fall asleep so soundly that they allow two double steals to be perpetrated on them in one inning.

George Sisler, the star manager of the Browns, again caused joy to the thousands of fans who are pulling for his comeback when he hit a double and two singles, scored a run and accepted eight chances perfectly.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Rookie Whitehill is Winner.

DETROIT, April 17.—Whitehill, rookie pitcher, who beat Cleveland out of second place in the American League last fall, outpitched Coveleskie in a pitcher's battler, Wednesday, and the Ty Tigers beat the Indians, 5 to 1. Heilmann hit a homer with one on. The score:

One More Entry In High School Relays

A belated entry in the home course relays showed up at Coach Schulte's office Thursday morning when Superior reported the performance of its half-mile relay team. The Superior runners stepped this distance in 1 minute 37 2-5 seconds.

The Beatrice team, accorded the honor of grand champions, will enter the Drake relays instead of the Kansas relays. Coach Garrett notified the athletic office that his boys would rather compete at Des Moines than at Kansas. E. L. Long, of the College Book store, who pays the expense of the winning team each year, makes it optional with the team whether it goes to Lawrence or Des Moines.

The Journals, Milady Coffee, Postoffice and Hardy bowling teams won the Commercial league matches rolled on the Lincoln alleys Wednesday night. Bertram was the high point man of the evening with a 574 total. The scores:

Ed Zink May Quit National Pastime

Ed Zink, former Nebraska State league hurler, who starred for the Links last year, returned to Lincoln from Howard Wakefield's Nowata training camp and announced that he may never pitch another game. Ed injured his arm in a game between the Lincoln Western leaguers and the Bartlesville Bearcats Sunday afternoon. Zink was attempting to burn one across the platter when he slipped on the mound and fell. The infield was covered with water and the pitcher's box was a sea of mud. Biz Ed went into the box to relieve Maple and was not warmed up when the accident occurred. Conbet, who was playing first was standing nearly shin deep in the water. Ed, if he can steam them over with the same old zip will probably play with Beatrice in the Tristate. He was released by Lincoln.

Third City Signs Nine Ball Players

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., April 16.—The Grand Island team of the Tri-state league has already signed up nine players and contracts are expected daily from about fifteen others. Manager Krabinger expects to have a pretty fair lineup ready for the initial game. A lease for the grounds has been perfected with the authorities of the school district, which owns Athletic park, and a large part of the proceeds of which goes to high school athletics.

Helen Wills Ready to Meet Suzanne Lenglen for World's Tennis Crown

BY HENRY L. FARRELL.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Another of California's fairest daughters, a dashing 18-year-old miss, stands ready now for elevation to the throne as the international queen of tennis.

Golden haired Helen Wills, the idol and the proud boast of all America, is the recognized champion of the United States, and if she wins the British championship at Wimbledon next June, she will be the legitimate champion of the world.

There is no official title as the world's champion tennis player, but there can be no dispute for a claim to the title made by the winner of the British and the American championships.

Cinch Without Suzanne.

Just beginning to reach the best part of her game, the California girl has an even chance to win the British title against the best competition in the world. If Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, the reigning queen of the court, does not defend her title, "little Helen" is a cinch to win.

The temperamental French star announced recently that her heart was first in France, that she wanted to be on her best game for the glory of France in the Olympic games and that she could not defend her title at Wimbledon.

She may have other reasons for not wanting to try her game against Miss Wills at Wimbledon, but it is not courteous to question her motives or to doubt that her decision to stay away from the Wimbledon tournament was inspired by any reason other than the one given.

It is unfair to the California girl to say that she will win if Mlle. Lenglen does not play, because the inference would go along with it that she could not have won the championship if the real champion had been there to play her.

Miss Wills is going to England to play for the United States in the Wightman Cup matches, in the British championships and at the Olympic games. It is quite certain that she loves her country as deeply and as passionately as Mlle. Lenglen loves France. The American girl believes that she can get on her best game by playing thru the most strenuous preliminary competition in strange lands and under unfamiliar conditions. The French girl believes that she would hurt her game by playing thru one tournament at Wimbledon on a court that ought to be as familiar to her as the path to the door of her home.

Will Afford No Alibi.

The variance in the policy of the two girls may be and probably is the result of a wide difference in national characteristics over which there is no control.

This much is certain, however, if the French star saves herself for the Olympic games to the exclusion of all other competition, she can have no alibi if she discovers during the Paris games that there is another girl her superior on the court.

Because of the wide difference in their temperaments, because the Frenchgirl has an established tendency to "blow up" in a crisis and because the American girl has the finest competitive spirit of any American athlete, we would give Miss Wills more than an even chance to beat Mlle Lenglen at Wimbledon and we feel that she is almost certain to beat her if they meet in the Paris Olympics.

It might be admitted that Mlle. Lenglen has a flashier and flossier game than the American girl, it must be conceded that she is more experienced than "Little Helen," and it might be granted that Suzanne can do more things on the court more skillfully than her leading rival can, but in the heat of battle, when the issue might come to a point for victory, "Little Helen" is vastly better equipped to get the best out of her game than the French girl is.

In the tightest of pinches when everything might depend upon the most perfect bit of execution, Helen Wills never will be ruffled. She has a most superb fighting heart and a disposition that is most remarkably stable for such a young girl. Under the same conditions the French girl might work herself into a cough spell and "blow" the whole work.

America would be delighted to the heart if her "Little Helen" should come back from Europe as the British and the Olympic tennis champion. Since the days of 1905 and 1907 when the 18-year-old California darling, Maj. Sutton, won the British championship, there has been no girl who has worked herself so close to the heart of the American public as has Helen Wills.

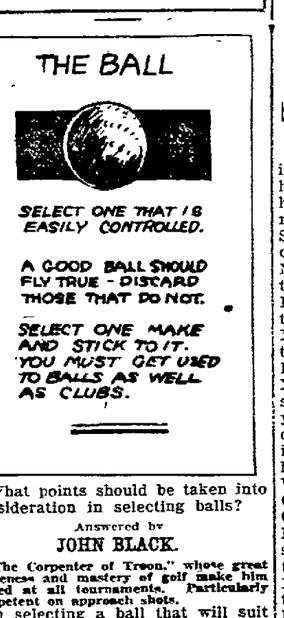

She represents what statesmen, diplomats and educators like to hold up as the national girl, a type of girl that can be paraded any place in the world and be pointed to with pride by Americans as "our girl."

No Reason to Lose.

Helen Wills may be shut out in the Wimbledon tournament, she may make a sorry showing in the Olympic games, but yet she will be a credit to her country and the shield she is to wear because if she does have to lose, she will lose as bravely and as graciously as she would have won, generously and nobly.

There is not a reason, however, why she should be forced to show what a good loser she is.

LITTLE LESSONS IN GOLF

What points should be taken into consideration in selecting balls?

Answered by JOHN BLACK.

"The Carpenter of Troon," whose great gameness and mastery of golf make him feared at all tournaments. Particularly competent on approach shots.

In selecting a ball that will suit your play you should select one that you can control. If you are playing a ball you cannot control, your game will not be satisfactory and you should make a change. Select a ball that will fly true and one that you can control on the green. Do not play different makes of balls every day. You have to get used to what the ball will do just as you have to get used to your clubs.

Superior to Hold 12-Mile Relay Race

SUPERIOR, Neb., April 17.—A 12-mile relay race to be run between Superiorand Nelson will be held here May 16 in conjunction with the junior high school track meet, A. L. Keester, athletic director announced Thursday. Each contestant will run a mile. A trophy will be offered for the winning team and likewise for the best individual time. This is to be made an annual affair and the distance will be lengthened next year.

Sioux City, Ia.—The biggest boxing contest that Sioux City fans have ever witnessed will take place here on April 25 when Eddie Morris, Sioux City welter, meets Warnie Smith, Oklahoma cowboy who recently administered a beating to Morrie Schlaifer, pride of Omaha, in the main event of a boxing show at East Chicago. On the same card that Smith beat the Omaha boxer, Morris made his debut in the big town by handing a good pasting to Patsy Rosco, tought young Italian. Morris' rise has been more or less sensational. A mediocre fighter two years ago, he is now considered one of the most likely looking youngsters in the division. He numbers among his victims Harvey Thorp, Eddie Welsh, Mike Rozgall, Sid Socklyn, One Step Watson and Dago Joe Gans. He defeated Gans on the last Legion card in Sioux City by a sizable margin. When the pair entered the ring the Italian was a 2 to 1 favorite, but Morris stepped into the lead from the start and had the bout well in hand at all times.

New York—Appeals to modify the six round rule for minors, to repeal the $10 per round rule for preliminary boxers and approval of a new rule to permit champions to submit a list of six referees to the commission for championship bout were made by the national sports alliance to the boxing commission.

New York—Frank Churchill, manager of Pancho Villa and Charley Cook and George Marks who were suspended for irregularities connected with the weights made in the Villa-Marks bout, have been reinstated by the boxing commission.

Boston—Final details were arranged today for a ten-round contest here Saturday night between Harry Greb, middleweight champion and Kid Norfolk, negro lightheavyweight champion.

SOLONS DROP FIRST GAME TO WICHITAS

Izzies Hammer Offerings of Rasmussen in Seventh and Eighth Innings—Hamilton and Conkey Star at Bat.

Lincoln baseball fans will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 at the chamber of commerce to map out plans for the opening day of the Western league season here, April 29, Lee Ager, secretary of the Lincoln baseball park association, announced.

WICHITA, Kas., April 16.—Wichita hit the ball much harder today and annexed the opening performance of the Western league baseball season, 10 to 3. The game was a battle for six innings and a half. The big blow up occurred in the seventh when the Izzies put the game on ice with a collection of six hits and Lincoln misplays.

The locals clinched the contest in the eighth when the youngster McNamara hit one over right field fence with two of his mates on the sacks. The contest was started by a youngster opposed to a veteran in the box and the kid won. McNamara, a southpaw just twenty years old who received his first trial in professional company last season was easily better than Rasmussen who was hit hard. Only two earned runs were secured off McNamara and one of these was a flunk.

Hamilton Hits a Homer.

Hamilton fenced a ball in the third for a legitimate homer and earned a tally. Lincoln started like winners when with two out in the first Milan walked and McDonald soaked one to left for a clean hit. The ball took a bad hop over Kuness's head and Milan was in. Two bad throws by McNamara to first base, after Butler had booted Kinsella's grounder let in another run. Wichita tied it in the second on two singles and McMullen's triple. Smith's homer tied Hamilton in the third. That was all for Lincoln as McNamara allowed but three scattered hits the last six frames. The game was played in a cool wind. Jonathan Davis, Governor of Kansas tossed the first ball. Nearly four thousand fans turned out for the battle.

Wakefield Releases Players.

Maple, pitcher; Batton, catcher, and Maloney, shortstop, were released by Manager Wakefield here today. Bill Lellivelt, secretary of the club, announced that Gillespie, Wichita first baseman, would join the club Thursday. The score:

NEBRASKA TEAM IS PICKED FOR RELAYS

Coach Schulte Names Those Who Will Carry Nebraska Colors at Annual Kansas Relays This Week-End.

Coach Schulte announced Thursday the team which he will take to Lawrence Friday night to compete in the Kansas relays. The "Indian" is worried and perturbed over the Husker prospects and while he was not expressing any sentiment along this line outwardly it was apparent thathe was not satisfied with the showing made by the candidates in the final trials Wednesday afternoon. Locke's performance in breaking the record for the stadium track was the only outstanding feature of the afternoon.

Locke clipped off the 256 yards in 29 seconds flat, knocking one-fifth of a second off the record set up recently by Red Layton.

The relay teams which will probably represent Nebraska are:

440-yard relay—Locke, Hein, Whippeman, Crites.

880-yard relay—Locke, Hein, Reeble, Layton, Whippeman or Higgins.

Mile relay—Captain Gardner, Higgins, Lewis, Ross.

Medley relay—Siemens (mile), Higgins (880), Crites (440), Hatch (220).

In the special events Nebraska will be represented as follows:

Shotput—Hartman, Bassett.
High jump—Turner.
Broad jump—Hatch, Rhodes.
Discus—Scott or Pospishil.
Pole vault—Davis, Gleason, Winsig or Rhodes.
Javelin—Brainerd.

LATE NEWS OF YESTERDAY

H. H. KETELHUT IS SUED SECOND TIME

Henry R. Meier Asks Damages for Death of His Daughter Struck By Auto and Killed Last Fall.

The second suit against Harvey H. Ketelhut, the outgrowth of the fatal auto accident at Sixteenth and N streets, November 5, 1923, was instituted in district court Wednesday afternoon by Henry H. Meier, father of Bertie Meier, who was killed. Mr. Meier, as administrator for his daughter's estate, brought an action to recover $5,000.

Miss Meier, with two girl companions, was walking northward on Sixteenth street, and had just stepped out into N street when the defendant rounded the corner with his Overland car and struck the trio, killing one, seriously injuring another and slightly injuring the third.

The first suit was filed about two weeks ago by Etta Parks, one of Miss Mier's companions who suffered serious injuries.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Van Doran, 1328 South Fifteenth, when their daughter, Helen, became the bride of Flavel Funk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Funk of Hiawatha, Kas. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Harry Sawyer, of Kearney, sang "At Dawning." The wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Miss Sunbeam Burton, accompanied by Miss Margaret Beyette on the violin, and "To a Wild Rose" was played during the ceremony. The wedding party took their places before an improvised altar of roses and palms. The bride, attended only by her maid of honor, Miss Myra McGraw, was gowned in white satin trimmed in pearls, with her veil of tulle caught and held fan fashion at the back, forming a soft frame for her face. She carried a bride's shower bouquet of white Ophelia roses, sweet peas and swansonia. Miss McGraw wore a Romaine crepe gown of powder blue made with fischu and drop skirt of white lace and carried a shower bouquet of Columbia roses tied with pink tulle. Ernest Hook served as best man for Mr. Funke. Rev. Ray E. Hunt, pastor of the First Christian church, performed the ceremony in the presence of seventy-five guests. At the reception which followed, members of La Joie de Vie, Miss Genevieve Detweiler, Miss Fern and Zella Huston, Miss Eva and Miss Elsie Anderson, Miss Frances Walker, Miss Gertrude Hauschildt, Miss Nina Burton, Miss Charlotte Littlefield, and Miss Ruey Beach, were in charge of the dining room. Amusements

Recital by Alliebelle Brown

Miss Alliebelle Brown trilled and caroled with bird-like ease when presenting her senior recital at the Temple theater Wednesday evening, and aroused almost unprecedented enthusiasm for a student appearance of the kind. Miss Brown is an Albion girl who has been studying under Madame Gilderoy Scott at the school of music for about three years. Her high soprano voice is exceedingly flexible and it was in songs of the prima donna coloratura type that she was at her best. Her singing of the Bell song from "Lakome," one of Galli-Curci's favorites, was astonishing in the operatic skill attained by the young singer, the beauty of her bell-like tones and trills, and the ease with which she reached high C at the close. The power and fullness of the tones of her upper register made it possible for her in this song and others to achieve dramatic climaxes without any trouble at all, and she sang with a degree of vivacity almost unknown at a student performance, even of a singer prepared for graduation. In the "Crying of Water," a song of a different style, Miss Brown's sustained tones were lovely and smooth. Most of the songs were at too rapid tempo for the words to be very distinct but Miss Brown demonstrated thru the distinctness of her words in the little ballad, "There are Fairies at the bottom of our garden," that she could enunciate clearly when desired. The program contained songs in Italian, French, German and English, and was one that would prove taxing to any singer. Instead of tiring, Miss Brown warmed as she sang and the best effects were from the middle of the program, beginning with the "Lakme" aria, on to the close.

Earnest Harrison accompanied in highly skilled and sympathetic style. The audience filled the lower floor of the theater. Floral gifts from friends decorated the stage.

The program follows:

Handel, Oh! Had I Jubal's Lyre, from "Joshua," Mozart, Forgi Amor, from "Le Nozze di Figaro," Verdi, Caro Nome, from "Rigoletto."

Schubert, Gretchen Am Spinnrade, Haldon Roslein.

Brahms, The Maynight, The Smith, Roger, The Virgin's Slumber Song; Strauss, Serenade.

Delibes, Ou Va La Jeune Indoue, from "Lakme."

Rachmaninoff, Lilacs; Gretchaninoff, Slumber Song, Rimsky-Korsakoff, The Hymn to the Sun, from "Le Coq d'or."

Batten, April Morn; Campbell-Tipton, The Crying of Water; Lehmann, There are fairies at the bottom of our garden, LaForge, The Sanctuary, Carew, The Piper of Love.

Miss Brown is to play the lead in the Sullivan opera, "The Gondoliers" with May Valentine's company of singers, on the Redpath chautauqua circuit during the summer.

A Piano Graduation.

Henry Kolling, student with Mrs. Will Owen Jones, will give his senior pianoforte recital Thursday evening at 8:20 in the Temple theater. The public is invited. The program will be as follows:

WALT MASON

THE VILLAGE COUNCIL

The fathers of the village are busy all the time; they're on the trail of pillage, uprooting graft and crime. They have impeached the traitor who runs the village scale; his misdeeds, small and great, have landed him in jail. They're now investigating the keeper of the pound; they're whooping and orating and pawing up the ground. The uproar louder waxes, each day its new probe brings and men who pay the taxes are saying bitter things. "No office holder bothers to do his proper chore, but all the village fathers are out for some one's gore: we hear them idly spoofing, and while they rant away, the village jail needs roofing, the peelers lack their pay. The cocklebursare growing upon the public street, while eloquence is flowing where tinhorn statesmen meet. The village pump is needing a handle and a spout while aldermen are pleading for warrants for some scout. The alleys all are dirty, the bridge is broken down, and there are ten or thirty bootlegging joints in town: and still the village fathers investigate and roar, and not a statesman bothers to do his proper chore." Some day there'll be a rising of those who pay the freight! catastrophes surprisinb the Bugle will relate.

REFORMATORY DRAWS TWO

One Convicted of Embezzlement and Another of Highway Type of Robbery.

Gus Miller's home for first offenders drew a pair of new ones Thursday. For the first misstep, each man had selected something usually carried in the trick bag of the tried and hardened. One took a fling at highway robbery and the other worked the embezzlement string. They are registered as Charlie Morse and Harry Pavey and were brought to Lincoln by Sheriff Burns of Lexington.

For robbery, Morse drew three years flat. He and a partner worked over a victim to the tune of $10. The partner skipped to Mexico. Pavey drew from one to two years for embezzlement.

Not Personal Insults

"He regarded the ordinary vicissitudes of life as personal insults."

I read that sentence in a story the other day and it stuck in my mind because it was such a corking piece of characterization of a certain type of person.

You know the sort of person I mean. I don't doubt you have already mentally picked out of your acquaintance and said: "If that doesn't just describe So and so." The sort of person who never seems to realize that the life of practically everyone has its small annoyances and disappointments and irritations and deprivations, and who regards all the tiresome things that happen to him as something peculiarly outrageous.

Generally he talks a great deal about his luck.

His Train Is Late

His train is half an hour late in starting and he fusses and fumes and casts dark glances at the train officials and says: "Just my luck that the train I pick out to go on should be held up like this." There are three or four hundred more people on the train who are also being held up. Is it to be assumed that they don't mind being delayed, that it is only he who is suffering? Or does he think that the fate which takes so much pains to hand him out a raw deal is willing to involve saveral hundred people in order to make him miserable?

He has a pleasure trip planned and that fate which takes such a deep personal interest in him sends bad weather. It is a national holiday and several hundred thousand people are probably affected by the weather. But: "It's just my luck" he says, "if I plan anything I always get it in the neck."

"Just My Luck"

He has half a dozen pieces of good luck in business and then one bad one. The good ones he passes over; the bad one is just another sample of his luck.

"Why can't things ever go just right for me?" he complains when some piece of good fortune is offset by some anxiety in another direction.

Of course the answer is that things practically never go just right for any one for any length of time.

That's life. A raise at the office, a chance to sell the old car at good advantage, then a siege of whooping cough for the children and a leak in the roof. Trouble with the new car, expensive eye glasses broken, something wrong with the plumbing, then a word of praise from the boss, a rumor of a new car line that will send up the value of your land, and the advent of some new neighbors who add much to the joy of life. So the chapters run. Now a top of the world day. Now a day when "all thy billows" seem to have gone over us.

We All Hate the Billows

Of course we hate the billows. But there's no use assuming that we are the only one who have to suffer them. We aren't. Other people don't have our particular annoyances, but they have their own.

The happiest man isn't the one who escapes all annoyances, because he doesn't exist. He's the one who faces them with courage and a certain amount of matter-of-factness, and doesn't rage against the ordinary vicissitudes of life as a personal insult devised to make his lot different from other people's.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know—Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.—Advertisement.

Appalling Problem Confronts Americans, Life Tables Show

Average health span extends only from age 18 to age 31—Earning power dwindles rapidly after 40

Health—physical freedom and full vigor—ends at age 31 for the average person. Maximum usefulness ends at 40. These facts, shown by the United States Life Tables, 1920, form the most appalling problem every human being has to face!

What are the years after 40 going to mean to you? Will they be worth living? Can you earn your way during those years?

Not if you are "the average individual." What sort of person is "the average individual" in America? He works hard. He eats unwisely. He loads his body with drug stimulants, which appear to give energy, but actually borrow this energy from his own reserve.

Age 31—and he begins to slip. The reserve strength which his body sought to store up against these later years, has bit by bit been robbed. Age 40—he suffers loss of income. Age 5—what?

Remember the simple laws of health which everyone learned in school. Avoid stimulants. Avoid the sleepless hours, upset digestion, warning headaches, taut nerves and muscle complexions which so often accompany the use of the drug caffein.

Caffein is classified as a poison. Like strychnin, it is sometimes given by doctors in cases of heart failure. The average cup of coffee contains the usual dose of caffein ... in such cases. The alarming feeling of taking this poison regularly into the system, ... frightful ... of health and usefulness as ... length of life.

You need the digestive aid and comfort of a hot drink. You can get such a drink without drugs. You can get it with a flavor which millions of people consider more delicious than any other. You can get it in a form which contributes, rather than robs, reserve strength.

Change to Postum! Whole wheat and bran, skillfully roasted, with a little sweetening. Nothing more. A wholesome drink—an enjoyable drink. Try Postum for thirty days—you can't rid yourself of the effects of a habit of years in a few days.

We will start you on your thirty-day test, with a week's supply of Postum—free. Either Postum Cereal (the kind you boil) or Instant Postum, the easiest drink in the world to prepare. Either kind costs less than most other hot drinks. Just indicate the kind you want for your week's free supply—and we will also have Carrie Blanchard, famous for the goodness of her Postum, send you her own directions.

WENT NOT AS ONE STRANGE

FAME OF MR. COWGILL BEAT HIM TO ARKANSAS.

Not Only Do Folks of Ozark Land Appreciate His Works But They Had Gossiped in Regard to Him.

The name and fame of Commissioner Cowgill preceded that official to Arkansas and when he landed down among the people of Ozark land he found that not only were they acquainted with his works and deeds but some of 'em brazenly admitted that they had gossiped about him in a more or less personal way. Mr. Cowgill returned Thursday morning from a $90 trip thru portions of five states. The council voted him $125 from the muny coal fund. The first thing he did after reaching his office was to place all receipts on the table together with $30 in currency and some silver. He also relieved himself of one sample hunk of coal weighing approximately three ounces. It was wished upon him by an Oklahoma operator.

Mr. Cowgill was impressed by the blackness of the coal in the Arkansas sector and by the paleness of the people. The women, he says, are particularly pallid and many of them smoke pipes. None of them favor the style of pipe adopted by Mayor Zehrung for his own personal use. He says there are no slow trains in Arkansas. All of them jog along at reasonable speed and busses are in common use between towns. Mr. Cowgill's diary reveals the following:

First day inspected Excelsior Valley.
Next day in Paris.
Third day (Sunday) went to church.
Over in Oklahoma field on Monday.
On Tuesday worked Arkansas field again.
Stopped at Ft. Leavenworth enroute home.

He said that he expects to handle between 4,000 and 5,000 tons of Arkansas semi-anthracite in addition to Illinois lump at the muny yard during the next season.

"Coal prices", he said, "in general will be lower. I discovered that the fame of our yard had spread to Arkansas and that they even had a bit of gossip on me personally. I was down in three mines. Didn't see Mr. Dayton while I was away. I am prepared to present receipts for every penny spent except for tips to porters."

EXPENSE OF CANDIDATES

Coolidge Delegates Pay $100 Each, With Few Exceptions, to Defray Expenses Incurred.

Delegates to national conventions elected at the recent primary are filing reports of expenditures. The democratic delegates have not yet contributed funds. Most of them report no expenses. The republican delegates report the payment of $100 each to the Coolidge campaign fund. George N. Seymour of Elgin, one of the republican delegates at large, reports no expenditures. Gould Dietz of Omaha gave nothing to the Coolidge fund, but he spent $90 for advertising for himself.

George C. Junkin of Smithfield, republican delegate at large, reports the payment of $100 to the Coolidge campaign fund. In answer to the question on the blank indicating the purpose for which money was spent Mr. Junkinw rote. "I know not."

Mrs. Draper Smith of Omaha, delegate at large, discloses that her own name is Henrietta I. Smith. She gave $100 to the Coolidge fund. This was paid to Harry S. Byrne of Omaha, treasurer. Mrs. Smith expalins that this was contributed by her toward defraying expenses connected with the circulation of a petition for her as candidate for delegate at large.

W. H. Thompson of Grand Island, candidate for judge of the supreme court in the Fifth district, reports the expenditure of $366.55.

C. E. Harman, democratic candidate for state auditor spent $106.

E. C. Houston of Tekamah, republican candidate for congress in the third district, spent $247. Of that amount $216 was paid to a press association.

DELAYS AN APPOINTMENT

Constitution Prohibiting Selection of Legislators for State Office Confronts the Governor.

Governor Bryan has struck a section of the state constitution which has temporarily held up his appointment of George B. Collins of Omaha to be municipal judge. The constitution, recently amended, prohibits the appointment of a member of the legislature to any "civil appointment to a state office" during the term for which he has been elected. The governor is inclined to take the view that the office of municipal judge is not a "state office," but rather a city office, the salary of which is paid locally and not by the state. He is considering arguments submitted by attorneys on both sides of the case. The constitution formerly prohibited legislators from accepting any civil appointment within the state but this prohibition was in name only. The old section was disregarded by different governors, both republican and democratic.

Mr. Collins is a member of the house from Omaha. He was a candidate for municipal judge and received the highest vote of any outside the list of present judges who were candidates for renomination. Mr. Collins is a democrat.

JOBBERS TO GET TOGETHER

Chamber of Commerce Subdivision Working on Plans to Make Lincoln Commercial Center.

Several tentative plans for boosting Lincoln as a commercial center were proposed and discussed Thursday at a meeting of the jobbers and manufacturers subdivision, chamber of commerce. These will be sifted out at the next meeting, to be held in two weeks, and made the foundation for a constructive program. Chairman E. T. Scott said Thursday. He appealed to the members to sink personal jealousies and unite their efforts to maintaining the present status of the manufacturing and jobbing in Lincoln, pointing out that whatever promoted commercial success also enabled the city to foster such projects as its schools, universities and the like.

Attention was called to trade trips in this territory, projected by Omaha and Kansas City jobbers for this spring. There was also an announcement of a meeting April 29 at which John W. Gorby, vice president of the national transportation institute, was to discuss freight rates.

BANKING—III. The Federal Reserve System.

ONE of the most important pieces of financial legislation ever enacted in this country was the Federal Reserve Act approved by President Wilson on Dec. 23, 1913. The banking system existing in America prior to that time was quite defective, and it was an attempt to eliminate these defects which led to the passage of the Reserve Act. In fact, the defects of the American banking system were so pronounced as to lead Andrew Carnegie to stigmatize it as the worst banking system in the civilized world. At the time of financial crises the credit machinery broke and panics resulted. America was an international financial nuisance.

Structure of the Federal Reserve System—There are twelve Federal Reserve Banks located in as many districts in the United States. The capital stock in each Reserve Bank is owned entirely by the member banks. All national banks must become members, and eligible State banks and trust companies may join. There are approximately 1,600 State banks and trust company members. Each member bank must buy stock in its Reserve Bank equal to 3 per cent. of its own capital and surplus. The paid-in capital of the twelve Reserve Banks amounts to over 110 millions of dollars and their surplus to over 218 millions of dollars. Each member bank is also required to keep funds with its Reserve Bank as a reserve against deposit liabilities. At the present time the reserve balances of member banks with the Reserve Banks amount to nearly 1.9 billions of dollars. Against these deposits the Reserve Banks must maintain a reserve of 35 per cent. in gold or lawful money. Each one of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks is controlled by a board of nine directors six of whom are elected by the member banks and three appointed by the Federal Reserve Board in Washington.

At the head of the entire system is the Federal Reserve Board, which acts as an agency co-ordinating the activities of the twelve Reserve Banks. The board consists of eight members, six of whom are appointed by the President of the United States for terms of ten years each and the Secretary of the Treasury and the Comptroller of the Currency as ex-officio members. The board may require one Reserve Bank to loan to another, it must approve of the discount rates established by each of the Reserve Banks, it examines the Reserve Banks and it defines in general terms the classes of loans and discounts which a Reserve Bank may make.

Functions of the Reserve System—What service does the Federal Reserve System perform for the American people which justify its existence? In what respects is the banking mechanism of the country superior now to what it was prior to 1913?

Monetary Elasticity—It is a recognized fact that more currency is needed during certain seasons of the year than at others. Thus additional currency is needed through the farming sections in the fall of the year to pay harvest hands and other necessary expenses. The money circulating in a country should expand to meet such needs and should contract once they have been satisfied. The Federal Reserve note acts in this very way, as it is based in part upon the promi sory notes of business men, farmers, &c., which are elastic, expanding and contracting with business needs. The types of money in America prior to 1913 were not elastic. They did not expand to meet seasonal needs or the needs for additional currency arising from financial disturbances. As a consequence interest rates fluctuated violently and panics occurred.

Credit Elasticity—As was noted earlier in the lesson, the reserves which member banks keep against deposits are held with the respective Reserve Banks. These reserves are simply deposit accounts and may be increased in exactly the same way as you would build up your deposit account with your bank, i. e., by depositing money, checks on other banks, and by borrowing funds and leaving the proceeds on deposit. If a member bank should desire to make additional loans (thereby increasing its deposit liabilities) it may build up its reserve with the Reserve Bank in these various ways. Thus the gold in the Reserve Banks forms the basis for credit expansions in the United States. If the gold supply of one Reserve Bank runs low it is privileged to borrow from another. During 1920 the Dallas Reserve Bank, for instance, borrowed extensively from some of the others.

Collection of Checks—It is not generally known, but it is a fact, that the great bulk of out-of-town checks are collected through the Reserve Banks. Last year the Federal Reserve Bank of New York alone collected 65.5 billions of dollars of such checks.

Transfer of Funds—The Reserve Banks are connected by leased wires and will transfer by wire, free of charge, funds to any city in the United States where there is a Federal Reserve Bank or a branch of a Federal Reserve Bank (the twelve banks have in all twenty-three branches). The Federal Reserve Bank of New York transferred for the Treasury and for member banks during 1923 28 billions of dollars.

Foreign Exchange—The Reserve Banks have been instrumental in encouraging the use of the banker's acceptance, which is employed in the financing of foreign trade and in building up an acceptance market in New York. There are now about 600 millions of dollars of acceptances outstanding, and a goodly portion of America's foreign trade is financed now through New York rather than by way of London, as was previously the case.

Fiscal Functions—The Reserve Banks transfer funds for the Government and may act as depositaries for Government funds. In addition, Government obligations (Liberty bonds, Victory notes and Certificates of Indebtedness, are sold through the Reserve Banks.

Summary—In the foregoing discussion we have really answered our question regarding the desirability of retaining the Federal Reserve System. It is indispensable.

PROBATE AN IRISH WILL

Will of Irish Woman Appears at Omaha in the Douglas County Court.

OMAHA, April 17.—An Irish will, with headings of the legal papers printed in Gaelic, disposing of the site of the Live Stock National bank of Omaha, valued at $100.000 was probated by County Judge Bryce Crawford today.

This is the first Irish will ever probated in Douglas county. It was made possible by treaties of the United States with Great Britain which provides that wills admitted to probate in either country will be admitted to probate in the other.

It was the will of Miss Mary Josephine MacDonald, who died January 22, 1923. Miss MacDonald, described by Attorney Malcolm Baldridge as "an aristocratic little old Irish lady of the white lact cap type," became owner of the Omaha property long ago when a brother came to this country and bought the property which helped make her wealthy.

MRS. DOREMUS IN DOUBT

Coolidge Delegate Running Close With Hiram Johnson Candidate in the Fourth District.

Frank P. Corrick, Coolidge manager in Nebraska, called Thursday at the capitol to see if the official returns discloses the successful candidates for republican national delegates from the Fourth congressional district. He visited the office of Secretary of State Pool where he was told several counties in that district had not officially reported. Mr. Corrick admits the race between Mrs. J. A. Doremus of Aurora, a Coolidge delegate and H. E. Potter of Fairbury, a Hiram Johnson candidate, can be decided only by official returns. Dwight S. Dalbey of Beatrice, Coolidge delegate in the fourth, was elected.

Seventy counties have filed official returns with the secretary of state but Secretary Pool has permitted no information to leak out and will not until his office force completes the canvasse of the entire ninety-thre counties.

FREMONT MAN IS CHARGED

Thirteen-Year-Old Girl Alleges Statutory Offense Committed by Vernon Opperman.

FREMONT, Neb., April 17.—Vernon Opperman, thirty-one, charged with a statutory offense by Iola Hayes, thirteen, was placed under $5,000 bond when he pleaded not guilty in justice court Wednesday afternoon. The case will appear at the next session of district court.

At the hearing the girl testified that she was a member of a party that left Fremont to attend a dance at Ridgely. Enroute the car became hopelessly mired in the mud and the party walked to a nearby farm house owned by Fred Shomshor. The family was absent at the time and the party of girls and men made themselves at home. Some one produced a bottle of liquor, she stated, and after three drinks, she became ill.

Opperman's alleged crime occurred shortly after, she testified. She told the court that as a result she is now in a delicate condition. The case was brought to light when the Hayes girl was hailed before Judge Button on a delinquency charge. Questioning by the court brought out the charge against Opperman and the prosecution followed.

POSTAL CLERKS IN PROTEST

Lincoln railway mail clerks, and postoffice employes in general, are taking considerable interest in the controversy between Postmaster General New and the congressional postoffice committee, because it involves the wage increase for which they have been fighting for years. They take particular exception to Mr. New's statement that there is a plot to destroy the parcels post for the benefit of the express companies, branding it as propaganda to defeat a wage increase. He told congress the Kelly-Edge bill providing for such an increase would cost $150,000,000 a year, which the clerks say is 50 per cent higher than the actual cost, and which could easily be provided by a nominal increase in parcels post rates. The charge of a plot to benefit the express companies is branded "preposterous."

SOME SUGGESTIONS FOR HOBBIES

Written by Julia Hoyt.

Hobbies add interest to living and I think that every woman particularly ought to have a hobby. The fun lies of course in becoming something of an authority upon something or other—scarabs, antique furniture, swimming, mah jong, painting of china, amateur theatricals—whatever you will. There are literally thousands of hobbies—and many of them are artistic studies which will change rapidly from work to sheer fun, if only we will throw ourselves upon them hard.

I have talked with so many girls and women, about the important question of occupying their time to the exclusion of boredom that I know the necessity for specific suggestion. Sculpture, painting, singing, and instrumental music, are among the most popular hobbies among American women of today. This is true probably because we can readily acquire enough proficiency to give ourselves and our friends some pleasure by riding these hobbies—even if we can not become expert enough to paint a prize winner or rise to the concert stage. I make one exception to this statement: the playing of the violin.

I say the violin purposely because that is the one instrument which is enjoyable only if played really well. I supose there are some people who might enjoy studying it even if they were not really good at it, but I cannot understand this. I remember as a girl when I played the violin for a number of years suddenly being overwhelmed by the realization that I could never be good enough at it to warrant continuing its study.

Piano, on the contrary can give much pleasure to both the player and hearers even if played moderately well. If you can read at sight there is a great deal of fun to be gotten out of reading four hands with someone else, or if you want to become slightly professional, accompanying at studios. I did the latter for a while and found it fascinating work. It is interesting not only from the musical standpoint, but also from a psychological one. One can learn a great deal about human nature by observing and studying the different pupils.

There are those, of course, who take their hobbies too seriously. It is all right to be earnest in acquiring an art as a hobby, but don't break your heart over your failure to become a professional top-notch success. Remember, it is only your hobby.

There is a real pathos in watching people who waste their years at something in which in their hearts they know they never can excel. A girl came down to see me supposedly to ask advice about her "career." After talking to her a little while I quickly saw that she not only did not have the temperament of an artist, but that she lacked everything else necessary to make one. In discussing why she was giving lessons rather than studying for the concert stage (which had been her original aim) she gave every possible kind of excuse to convince me of the necessity of her making more money than her family could give her, such as the clothes she must have, the recreations and amusements necessary to her life, etc.

Undoubtedly here was a girl who, if she had been rich, could have very easily studied the piano as a true hobby, but never as a profession.

Perhaps the most delightful hobby of all, if you have money, is collecting. I do not mean simply the expenditure of money and the buying of beautiful things on the say-so of some art dealer or salesman in a store. I mean the study and research which brings you to know thoroly whatever thing you decide to collect, and enables you to make your purchase on your own say-so. If you collect, know your game. I cannot understand how anyone can desire to own without having the pleasure of really appreciating and knowing what they are buying.

COUNTY APPEALS ITS CASE

Not Satisfied With Judgment for But $62.42 Against a Former County Judge.

The county of Brown filed with the supreme court Thursday an appeal from a decision of Judge Dickson that all that John W. Barr, former county judge, owes it is $62.42. It sued for $4,440.80. Barr took office in January, 1921 and resigned on February 6, 1923, at the request of the board. He had not at any time the board claimed, made a report of his fees. Barr said his office, during most of the time, was a fee office, he being permitting to retain the first $1,900 each year for his services. For the two years and a little over, he said, the fees failed to pay his salary by $29.93 for which, as later it went on a salary basis, he asked judgment.

Judge Dickson found that he had failed to report fees of $92.55 that he should have included, and deducted from this what Barr claimed was owing him, leaving him debtor to the county in the sum of $62.42. The total fees collected were found to be $4,054.68 and the salary earned as $3,992.26. The claim of the county to some $400 other fees was disallowed.

SHOCKS APARTMENT MEN

Chicago Jury Gives $10,000 to Woman Whose Husband Died in Heatless Room.

CHICAGO, April 17.—A rude shock was dealt apartment house owners today by a jury which returned a verdict of $10,000 for Mrs. Helen F. Bornhoridt who charged that her husband died from pneumonia contracted in a heatless apartment. Many apartment house owners are rallying around the defendant and an appeal will be made from the decision for fear that numerous suits will be started if the award is allowed to go uncontested.

Mrs. Bornhoridt charged that her husband took cold and contracted pneumonia because her landlords, S. T. Butler and Laura McIntosh, failed to supply sufficient heat, despite repeated appeals.

"We were forced to wear sweaters and overcoats to keep from freezing," Mrs. Bornholdt testified.

Physicians were called, some testifying that pneumonia could be contracted quicker in overheated than in underheated apartments, while others testified the opposite. The jury returned its verdict within an hour for the full amount of the suit. This is the first time in the history of the state that such an award has been made.

TRACKS ARE WASHED OUT

Wind Causes Damage by Blowing Lake Water Over Roadbed Near Roxby, Neb.

NORFOLK, Neb., April 17. — The wind blew so hard between Long Pine and Chadron Tuesday night that the water from a lake was blown against the Northwestern track three miles west of Roxby Neb., and three hundred feet of tracks were washed out, tying up railroad traffic on the main line of that railroad. Passenger train No. 6, which was due in Norfolk this morning, was held up and a train had to be made up at Long Pine.

The water has been so high that repair men could not get onto the ground to make repairs. It was hoped to get trains over the damaged portion of the line before noon. Roxby is located between Cody and Ell, Neb., where the Northwestern tracks run thru low, marshy ground.

The lake along the tracks was whipped by the terrific gale. The high waves washed under the ties, taking out the roadbed. Construction crews were sent to the location at once, but they were powerless to do anything as the heavy waves were still whipping over and under the tracks.

GETS MORE EXCITEMENT

Charles Otis, Sixty-five, Sued for Breach of Promise and Separate Maintenance.

OMAHA, April 17.—Charles J. Otis, sixty-five, wealthy retired merchant, who recently said he was tired of the humdrum life of a widower, was given a little more excitement yesterday.

Tuesday Miss Elizabeth Boyd filed a $25,000 breach of promise suit against him.

Yesterday his bride of less than a month filed suit for separate maintenance. They were married March 26 and she left him two days later the bride, formerly Pearl Smith, said in her petition.

She asserts that she didn't want to leave him, but that his cruel and wanton mistreatment drove her to the home of her parents at Humphrey, Neb. Incidentally, she reminded the court that Otis is worth $400,000.

There was a tense moment before Thaw uttered his first words giving his name "Harry K. Thaw" to the clerk of the court.

The spectators saw in the dignified figure in thew itness chair little trace of the gay hearted spendthrift Pittsburgh youth who set tongues of New York and Paris a wagging with his extravagance a quarter of a century ago.

It was a heavy featured man, past middle age with thoughtful mein and rigidly composed features who appeared today to establish in open court his claim to sanity.

LATEST MARKETS

CHICAGO, April 17.—Grains started with an irregular undertone on the local board of trade today. Underlying strength in the wheat market was due to improved demand in Liverpool and the continent and freezing weather in the Canadian northwest.

Local buying strengthened May corn while slow demand caused deferred months to sag.

Cash oats was up with a good demand. Others were lower because of rapid progress in seeding and higher Argentine shipments.

Provisions started irregular.

Tribune Report.

CHICAGO, April 17.—The markets are regarded as well liquidated. One leading trader regards bearish conditions are having been discounted.

Winnipeg is working closer to Chicago, according to a close observer the United States is near enough to an export level to pay more attention to the buying side.

The trade was more friendly to the buying side of corn on talk of a better demand. The latter failed to develop, however, and shipping sales were finally reported at only 15,000 bushels.

Oats are meeting with a better cash demand. Export sales yesterday were estimated at around 100,000 bushels, largely Manitobas. Freight room was booked for at least 2,000,000 wheat to the United Kingdom and the continent in the last two days. Italy has booked three full cargoes.—Lamson.

Journal of Commerce Report.

CHICAGO, April 17.—While it was generally conceded that covering by shorts was chiefly responsible for the advance in grain futures and that reduction on outstanding short interest reduced buying power by that much, sentiment after the close was less pessimistic.

A leading local miller reported a marked improvement in the demand for flour and said his firm bought springs and winter wheats here this week and was after red winter.

A report that the McNary-Haughen bill had been reported out favorably by the senate committee and that the house committee was likely to do likewise, caused some o fthe buying. While expecting the defeat of the bill, a leading grain operator called attention to the hazardous position of the seller if the measure were passed.—Lamson.

Grain Market Opinions.

Clement-Curtis & Co.: With the pit element well covered it is a question whether an advancing tendency can be maintained.

Bartlett-Frazier & Co.: Strength in the cash markets might carry futures to a higher level.

Harris-Winthrop & Co.: We doubt much further upturn.

Stein-Alstrin: We expect the rally to extend further.

Hulburd-Warren & Chandler: As much of the buying was by previous sellers we doubt if the advance will extend much further.

Thomson-McKinnon: The advance has relieved an oversold condition.—Lamson.

Herald-Examiner Report.

CHICAGO, April 17.—Grain traders appear more cheerful. Early weather forecast indicates: Mo., Ia., Minn., Wis., Mich., Ill.: Rain and colder Thursday; Friday, fair.—Lamson.

World's Wheat Stocks.

PLAYING THE OTHER FELLOW'S HAND

Omaha Livestock.

OMAHA, April 17.—Cattle: receipts 3,500. Thursday's fat cattle market was much the same as it has been all week, steady to stronger on the good to choice medium and heavy steers, and slow to lower on plain cattle and yearlings.

Sales of beef steers today:

No.	Av.	Price	No.	Av.	Price
5	964	$8.00	22	1084	$10.00
7	1047	8.85	31	1164	10.00
17	1127	9.00	26	1260	10.25
8	919	9.10	35	1262	10.90
24	1133	9.25	2	1440	11.60
18	1141	9.35	65	1471	11.70
20	1131	9.75

Hogs—receipts 9,000. Reports from other markets were of just a trifle bearish nature this morning and tended to make local trade a little slow at the start. Shippers competition however, was fairly keen and as enough stuff began to move in this direction to make comparison, prices looked around steady with Wednesday.

Sales of hogs today included:

No.	Av.	Price	No.	Av.	Price
56	168	$7.00	52	241	$7.05
63	278	7.00	57	229	7.10
76	191	7.00	66	259	7.10
47	231	7.05	51	280	7.10

Sheep—receipts 5,500. The local element again was inclined to be a little bearish on fat lambs this morning with local packers making an effort to lower their cost further. Up to a late hour however efforts poved futile and the market dragged. A fair demand was apparent for shearers and trade was strong. Aged sheep were possibly a shade easier.

OMAHA, April 17.—Cattle: receipts 3,500; market mostly steady. Yearlings $7.00@10.90; steers $8.50@11.70; cows and heifers $2.50@9.25; stockers and feeders $4.00@9.35; calves $4.00@11.00; bulls and stags $4.25@7.00.

Hogs—receipts 9,000; market steady. Bulk $6.90@7.10; top $7.10.

Sheep—receipts 5,500; market steady. Yearlings $10.50@13.50; wethers $9.00@12.00; lambs $14.50@16.00; ewes $7.00@11.50.

Coming Events in Stocks.

NEW YORK, April 17.—The market promises a further rally in the early hours today, due largely to professional short covering over the holiday. Before the close an attack may be staged against certain of the oils on the theory that they are relatively high and that pressure may bring out liquidation of marginal accounts.—Lamson.

Wall Street Journal Review.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Car loadings for the first week in April showed a decrease of 45,452 from the preceding week and were 34,279 under the corresponding week of 1923, but were still far ahead of any previous year in the country's history.

Oil statistics were also relatively unfavorable, crude production showing an average daily increase of 35,350 barrels in the week ended April 12.

But stocks continued under the influence of the technical rally which proceeded practically thruout Wednesday's session and good tone characterized the early dealings.

Fractional gains were made by American Can, Baldwin and other industrial leaders.

Opening prices included: Pennsylvania 44 up ⅛; Republic 46¼; Baldwin 111¼ up ⅝; U. S. Steel 97 off ¼; New Haven 17⅜ up ⅛; Studebaker 85¼ off ⅛; Anaconda 32⅞ off ⅛; Southern Pacific 88⅝ up ⅜; Texas Company 41⅛ off ⅛; General Electric 210½ up ⅛; Reading 53¼ up ⅛. Westinghouse 60¼; U. S. Rubber 27½ up ⅝.

Stock Market Opinions.

A. A. Housman & Co.: Another test may come on further advance.

Lamson Bros. & Co.: We suggest a trading position.

Ware & Co.: A further rally appears likely.

Post & Flagg: The technical position is strong.

Clark-Childs & Co.: The feeling is decidedly better.

Wollman & Co.: An improved tone is evident.

Broadan Wall: The most encouraging feature yesterday was the indication on support in the oil shares. Those constructively inclined have been pinning their hopes on the petroleum and transportation groups. The strength in foreign exchange was another factor.

The annual meeting of stockholders of the steel corporation will probably bring forth encouraging views from Judge Gary and he then promise to be followed closely by another extra dividend distribution [illegible] to sell steel shares at the moment.

Iron Age: Pittsburgh and Youngstown [illegible] in some cases 10 to 15 per cent [illegible] ago. Sees a reduction [illegible] demand as only important reduction [illegible] consumption.

[illegible] of the so-called [illegible] has attracted much attention. [illegible] Yellow Cab issues [illegible] due to the failure of a [illegible] of small stockholders to respond [illegible] for additional margins. Recently there has been a large borrowing demand for the stock.

[illegible] Forbes: "While business is less [illegible] than a year ago it is on a sounder [illegible] and there is more chance of prices advancing than declining."—Lamson.

Picnic Preparations.

Chicago Daily News: "There is just one thing I want to know about the flat before I make a deposit," interjected the harassed and agitated man. "Do the other people who live here go on picnics?

"At the flat where we are now, we're not bathed in sunshine, nor are we convenient to cars. The elbow room is not vast, and the rent is very high. But none of the other tenants ever go on picnics, which is quite an advantage. I am loath to leave a place where there are no Sunday morning picnickers.

"We had to leave one flat once just on account of the picnickers. The rent was low, the rooms were sunny and pleasant, there was space to spare, but there were a lot of Sunday picnickers. Everybody else in the place went on a picnic every Sunday and holiday.

"You see, I'm a Sunday morning sleeper myself. My greatest diversion is to lie in bed late on Sundays and holidays, but one family going on a picnic can wake every other tenant in the largest apartment house in the world.

"There is nothing so wakeful to fellow tenants as preparations for an outing. Picnickers are early risers. They put off all preparations until Sunday morning. Sandwich making is their excuse for early rising. There are other little offices to perform in connection with picnic outings, not so important as the lunch, perhaps, but still quite necessary, such as the selection of wraps. This causes a great deal of consultation and argument at the last minute. Now the picnickers do not gather together in little confidential groups like conspirators. They can't. Their last-minute preparations take them to remote quarters of the home. One goes into the library, another into a bedroom, a third into a clothes closet and the fourth into the kitchen, and they shout their arguments, theories and suggstions from one to the other.

"'Shall I wear my blue cape or take a horse blanket with me?' 'Where's the can opener?' 'What did you do with the cheese?' 'What kind person has hidden the vacuum bottle?' 'Did anybody borrow the carving knife?'

"Moreover the excitement of going on a picnic causes people to raise their voices to a pitch which is not conducive to restful sleep on the part of unwilling eavesdroppers.

"Also, you have no doubt observed how picnickers invariably forget something at the last minute and tear back to the house and up the steps, and what with one person tearing around like that up and down stairs four times and the people outside already seated in the automobile calling out, 'Did you get it?' and 'Can't you find it?' and the person inside calling out from the innermost recesses of the pantry, 'No, darn it! I can't find it! It ain't here!'"

"Excuse me," interrupted the thin-lipped lady in charge of the renting of the flats, "I'll make you out a receipt," and she went away with the deposit money that the harassed man's wife had handed her.

Survey Farms From Air.

Measuring crop areas at the rate of a mile a minute is the latest achievement of the United States department of agriculture, says Popular Science Monthly. The fields are photographed from airplanes at altitudes of from 2,500 to 7,000 feet. By means of a planimeter, an instrument for measuring irregular areas in photographs, the actual area of each field is determined.

Dave Shade, New York, and Warnie Smith, Tulsa, Okl., regarded as contenders for the welterweight championship, have been booked for a ten round boxing match in Cincinnati next Monday night.

By Thursday evening the greater portion of 32,000 copies of The Investor for April will be delivered to the postoffice. If your copy fails to reach you by Saturday afternoon, drop us a postal card to that effect and another will be mailed you.

The April issue is 8 pages, chiefly because of a most convincing article by John W. MacGregor, entitled "Life Insurance and Investments." Mr. MacGregor is a member of the Board of Governors of the Investment Bankers' Association of America—our Company is a member—and is well fitted to speak with authority on the "four milestones on the road of success." His article deserves a careful reading by every investor "who can't afford to lose."

Statistics quoted in "The Outlook" seem to point to increasingly better business in the coming months, although there still are some "flies in the ointment." The lowered interest rate of 5 per cent on Farm Mortgages and 5½ per cent on Lincoln real estate means considerable saving to borrowers.

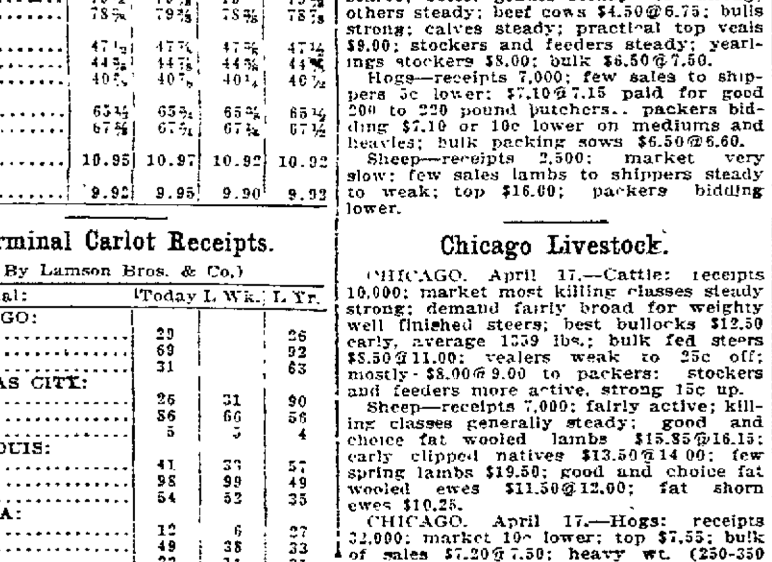

The offering of April Investment Securities includes some excellent Municipal (tax-exempt) Bonds and a number of high grade Industrial Corporation and Foreign Government Bonds. No Farm or City real estate mortgages—except a very few $100 sizes are offered; but we are still entering names on our waiting list. Let us know your needs in this line.

Other articles are "A Life Insurance Trust." "Contradictory Symptoms," "Rural Credits," "The Choice of Securities," smaller articles and paragraphs on our various services; an excellent picture of our big twin vaults; and a coupon for our El[illegible]ic plan of meeting Life Insurance Premiums the easiest way. If your name is not on our mailing list, ask to have it placed there. No charge or obligation will be incurred.

Surfeited With Service.

Don Herold in Life: The spirit of the times is exemplified in the number of dishes used to serve a grapefruit in a railroad dining car. Why should the officials of a great railroad try to stick so many dishes between me and my grapefruit? Every where we go somebody is trying to give us more service than is necessary.

You can no more get a baked apple served in one dish, served honestly and straightforwardly in one dish, in a dining car or first class cafe than you can—what is the old saying?—fly.

Enough good baked apple juice is lost annually by the unnecessary transfer of baked apple from dish A to dish B in dining cars and cafes to sustain the orphans of Patagonia, if there are any, thru the months of December, January and February, and well into March.

These food czars want you to play a game with your victuals and move them from dish to dish like chess. Soup must be dipped hither and yon, ham and eggs, even your toast must back and forth, even your toast must be snaked from under a helmet.

Such ritualism wears out waiters, wears out dishes, and wears out food. This fetching and carrying of surplus dishes is largely responsible for the appalling number of broken arches among negro waiters. I will wager that actual caliper tests would show an annual wear of .014 inch on those intermediary dishes which might as well be left in the kitchen, and just think what that means in the course of ten years.

The traveler is annoyed with other forms of surplus service, too. A man on the road gets whisk-broomed on an average of ten times a day. Whereever he turns there is somebody waiting to give him three or four whisks that he doesn't need. In one New York hotel at least there has sprung up a new service pest, a white-aproned girl, who, when you have ascertained from the room celrk the room number of someone you wish to phone from the lobby, steps in front of you as you reach for one of the several phones near the desk and says, "Shall I get it for you?" And of course the hat checking abomination is too old to complain about.

H. G. Wells and I feel much the same about these matters. He says, in "Men Like Gods" that the modern idea is not really service, but interception. Too many middlemen are trying to stick distribution stations, or dishes or whiskbrooms or something in between us and the objects of our desire.

I should like to see a change. I wish more folks would let me suffer hardships. For example, I know it would be healthful for travelers on American dining cars to have to go right out in the kitchen and get their own food, and maybe, after dinner, have to go out and help do the dinner dishes.

IS WOMAN FIREBRAND?

Klara Zetkin.

Klara Zetkin worries both Germany and France every time she has anything to say. Some months ago on a visit to France, she stirred the communist element almost to revolt. For the last few months Frau Zetkin has been in Moscow, Russia. Meanwhile in Germany, a warrant has been issued for her arrest on a charge of high treason, and she will be apprehended promptly upon her return to German soil. Frau Zetkin is leader of the feminist movement in Germany.

Retention of sovereignty by the United States is essential to maintenance of the founding principles of the nation and its government, President Coolidge declared in an address at the unveiling of the Arizona memorial stone in the Washington monument.

MEN AND THINGS

A good many persons to whom intelligence has been given use it for the purpose of trying to discredit parts of the existing body of knowledge. It is well and proper that the truth be known by everybody, but the disposition shown by a lot of the challengers and investigators is to announce their conclusions before they have ascertained the necessary body of facts to support them. The effect is to keep the public mind in a sort of turmoil that becomes wearisome, with the result that the public declines to take any interest in the discussions. This observation applies alike to science and to government. We would all like to know what the truth is about conditions at Washington, but we are not going to follow all of the wrangles and verbal mixups that attend on the investigations there.

What deep-hidden impulse is it in our natures that bids us turn our faces toward the outdoors when we seek inspiration or peace? Almost invaribaly, when we pause in our writing to pursue some word or phrase that impishly seeks to lure us into a game of mental hide and seek or are just plainly stalled for lack of an idea, we find our eyes turning towards the window and exploring the face of nature. If we are tramping up and down a room in meditation we never find ourselves staring at the blank wall at one end of the walk, but always catch ourselves halted where the window gives a wide view. Is it because we always turn to the light instinctively or is it because we know, without actually being aware of it, that it is in the broad bosom of nature where all secrets are hidden?

According to the census figures there are in Nebraska 686,000 persons of voting age. At the primary held the other day the total vote, it is safe to say, did not exceed one-third of that number. The successful candidates were nominated by a very much less proportion of the voters. Over 400,000 persons entitled to vote did not, therefore, take part in the election. Where age, absence or sickness does not interpose as a reason, this figure gives the number of slackers in Nebraska, for the man or woman who refuses to take part in the government of this country is dodging a solemn responsibility and neglecting a vitally necessary duty. Those are right who say that the menace to popular government is not furnished by the reds but by the slothful citizens who leave to the vigorous and insistent minorities the determination of national policies.

The physical and political atmosphere of Washington are alike unhealthy. Every person who goes there at intervals comes away with the impression that there is an unnatural hysteria arising out of the eternal clashing of politics. The senators and congressmen and those dependent upon official favor for the retention of their jobs live in a sea of politics, think politics, talk politics and take it with their meals. They get the idea that everybody else is as deeply interested as they are, and out of this state of mind arises such curious situations as we now find there, where each side is using unfair and disgusting methods with the hope of getting something on the other party, and where everybody thinks the people on the outside are interested in what they say or do along these lines. It is a species of insanity that attacks persons when they live in isolation from healthful conditions.

Impudent French journalists receive the report of the Dawes commission with a counter demand that interallied debts be cancelled, which is another way of saying that the United States should forgive France what France owes her. Well, the United States isn't going to forgive those debts, and it is not at all to the credit or reputation of France among American citizens that so many of those who assume to speak for her put her in the attitude of mendicant or repudiator. So long as so many of her spokesmen blatantly demand that we cancel France's debt to us, what right have they to sneer at Germany and call her names because her government has not honestly sought to meet her obligations under the treaty of peace?

NOT FOOLED.

Hubby: "Well, dear, I suppose you were right about there being burglars in the house last night."

Wifey: "Why?"

Hubby: "Because the money I had in my pocket is gone."

Wifey: "Well, why didn't you get up an sooot the burglar?"

Hubby: "If I had, I'd have been a widower this morning."—Prairie Farmer.

A Charade

A word I know will quickly show
What wicked people are;
And when transformed will be disclosed
A name they always share.
Transposed aright, 'twill bring to light
What all would wish to do.
If altered now 'twill fairly show
What hides them from our view.
